NOTES ON NEWS OF THE DAY.

REV. WILLIAM HOWARD, the boss electric sugar refining swindler, was taken from New York to Sing Sing yesterday handcuffed to a thief. He has now begun his service of nine years and six months.

PHILADELPHIA claims a population of 1,250,000 on the basis of the preliminary assessment of electors. If this claim is correct, it puts a check on Chicago's ambition to become the second city of the Union. After Chicago has annexed all the country for 20 miles around she will be able to show up not more than a million.

MISS MILDRED FULLER, fourth daughter of the Chief Justice, is to study law with her father as soon as she graduates from Wells College. It was "No. 5" who left her father for a visit to Chicago, and went from that city to Milwaukee to be absolved from her parental obligations and transferred to the state of matrimony by an humble Justice of the Peace.

THE President yesterday appointed Hon. William Walter Phelps United States Minister to Germany. He told Mr. Phelps that it was a personal appointment, intended as a reward for his services at the Berlin conference. Mr. Phelps's selection assures the most friendly and satisfactory relations between Germany and the United States as Mr. Phelps won golden opinions from the Emperor and his Chancellor.

THE Butler Club of Boston has presented to the state of New Hampshire a life size oil painting of Gen. B. F. Butler. The ceremonies took place at the state house in Concord yesterday, which was packed with spectators. Gen. Butler was born at Deerfield, N. H., and prepared for college at Phillips Academy, Exeter. He graduated from Waterville College, Maine. He will be 71 years old on the 5th of November—next election day.

ANNA DUBOIS of New York, who had tortured a weak minded child with a hot iron, was allowed yesterday by Judge Martine to plead guilty of assault in the third degree. In pronouncing sentence the Judge characterized her crime as a most fiendish and brutal one, and concluded by sentencing her to the penitentiary for one year and a fine of $500, to stand committed one day for each dollar till the fine is paid. This is the severest sentence provided by the law. Torturers of children do not have a happy life in New York.

THE Republicans are fighting the Bayard disfranchisement law on the ground of its unconstitutionality before the Delaware Court of Errors and Appeals. Under this law thousands of Republicans are disfranchised yearly by the simple act of leaving them off the assessment and refusing to accept their poll tax till the election has gone by. The court consists of four Democratic and one Republican Judge, but Senator Higgins, who is conducting the case, expects to get it in shape to appeal to the United States Supreme Court, where Mr. Bayard is not a boss.

MRS. IRA SMITH of Troy, on trial with her husband for arson, confessed yesterday that she committed the crime alone. The deed was done after she had taken a mixture of chlorodyne, laudanum, morphine and whisky to subdue the pain of a terrible disease, and while her husband was asleep under the influence of laudanum which she mixed with a dose of boneset tea. Mrs. Smith does not explain whether she ignited the premises with a match or with her breath, though the fire was started in twenty different places. Thirty-seven lives were endangered by her performance.

J. H. MANLEY has been reappointed Postmaster at Augusta, Me., Secretary Blaine's home office. L. B. Fowler, the Democrat to make room for whom Mr. Manley was removed four years ago, has been dismissed "for cause." One of the complaints was that mail matter was allowed to lie in the office three weeks without being "worked." Walter D. Stinson, a nephew of Mr. Blaine, is to be assistant postmaster. The people are greatly pleased to see Mr. Manley back in his old place, for he is a "hustler" in work as well as in politics, and they know that their mail will be delivered while fresh.

A REFEREE has ben appointed in the case of William Kemmler, the Buffalo girl-murderer, to take testimony in regard to the effect of an electric current upon the human body. A great many persons have been killed by electricity, but unfortunately they are not in a condition to testify; a great many persons have also been shocked and not killed, but they are equally at sea as to the necessary amount to effect instant death. How the machine will work will never be known till somebody has been fastened in it and the current turned on. If Kemmler is too good for such an experiment, his case might go over till the man who beat out a little girl's brains in Orleans county yesterday has been put "through the mill."

HON. CHARLES EMORY SMITH of the Philadelphia Press made so excellent an address at Union College Commencement yesterday on "The Degeneracy of the Times," showing by convincing arguments and a splendid array of facts and figures that the country is not going to the dogs, that the college conferred upon him the honorable degree of Doctor of Laws. Mr. Smith has hitherto been known as a Doctor of Newspapers, and the paper is invariably in a healthy state on which he bestows his professional services. But the laws need a good deal of doctoring and we shall be glad if they receive more of Mr. Smith's intelligent attention. This will be all the more valuable because he is not a lawyer.

DR. McDOW was the principal witness in his own murder trial at Charleston yesterday. He swore that he did not shoot Dawson until the latter had hit him with a cane and he became convinced that he had come to kill him. After the shooting he lost his reason, and spent a long time in trying to resuscitate his victim. After being convinced that he was dead he attempted to bury the body. He said that the Swiss maid, about whom the quarrel originated, had been represented to him as only a servant girl, and he had notified Dawson that he should speak to her until he showed his authority to prohibit him. McDow was terribly agitated when he began, but he became cooler as he proceeded, and told the most tragical part of his story with apparent unconcern.

Services to be Held at the Various Cemeteries in Johnstown.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., June 27.—A service of song in the various cemeteries is contemplated here before the State authorities quit the place on Saturday night. Sheriff McCandless, of Pittsburg, Colonel Hudson and others waited on General Hastings to-day with a view to having a day appointed for the purpose, but as yet the General has given no decision. The fact that very many of the unfortunates here, known and unknown, were buried without service has led to the suggestion, which is popular among the people here, especially among the State officers, who are anxious to take part in the affair before leaving.

At an informal meeting of the Masonic fraternity of Johnstown and Cambria City last night it was decided to close their relief stores and wind up the distribution of supplies to Masonic families. The two lodges have about $12,000 for distribution among families here.

PITTSBURG, June 27.—A communication has been received from James McMillen, Chairman of the Johnstown Finance Committee, and Cyrus Elder, Secretary of the Committee, in which the following statements are made: The Johnstown Finance Committee for the relief of sufferers by the flood would represent that there is urgent necessity for the prompt and wise use of the money which has been generously contributed by the country for the alleviation of the distress of our suffering people. Large as these sums of money are, they will be utterly inadequate to do more than mitigate the present distress, and to aid this community to make an effort for self help. The patience of the people has been unprecedented, and they are now beginning with courage to reconstruct, in temporary fashion, shelter for their families and places in which business can be carried on. It is impossible for the Committee or any number of committees to supply this community with the things it needs. It is really in need of everything, and the only practical way of helping it is to put into the hands of the individual members of the community that by which they can get what they need, not merely for subsistence, but all the various requirements of a people who are beginning life anew upon a devastated tract of land, on which once their fair City stood. Our Committee has been in receipt of contributions of money sent us from all over the country. We have used necessarily a portion of this money for the labor incident to the distribution of supplies of food, clothing and shelter, the collecting of statistics, etc. We have waited anxiously for some movement to be made on the part of the committees throughout the country having large sums in their hands, which would indicate what they intend to do with these funds. We can wait no longer. The necessity is so great for prompt action that our Committee has been obliged to adopt a plan of using our pittance of money for the immediate relief of sufferers. It has set on foot an accurate registration of all surviving sufferers, and it is proposed as an equitable and quick method of reaching their first pressing wants to divide the money which it holds equally among them. The sum which will be given to each will necessarily be small, but it will inspire them with hope that the larger amounts of money contributed for their relief may speedily become available, and it will give a better heart and a fresher hope to those who are now struggling to re-establish themselves in their lost employment and avocations. The position here is as follows: The working people are afforded ample employment, and as they are a people who owned their own homes, they are sticking to Johnstown in spite of their present privations. Our merchants, seeing this, are quickly opening their stores in shanties or board buildings of any type. We have thus on the one hand a community needing enough supplies from the merchants to enable them to do a good business, and on the other hand, the merchants making an earnest effort to supply this demand. If we can bring these two together and keep them together during the next 60 days our community will again be self-sustaining. But already the inability of the people to purchase is causing great despondency upon the part of the merchants, which, if not speedily checked, will cause further want and helplessness. There is but one method to check this, namely to furnish the people the funds with which to go to the merchants and make the purchase of that which will relieve them of their sufferings. Two needs are before us: First, to commence distribution immediately; second, to continue it on a basis equitable to all and satisfactory to the country.

Three bodies were found this morning.

Another Attack Upon Switzerland.

By Cable to The Freeman.

BERLIN, June 27.—The North American Gazette renews its attack upon Switzerland to-day. It charges that Switzerland promotes the advancement of social democratic ideas among the young men of the country. It says Anarchists without credentials are allowed to remain in Switzerland without effort on the part of the authorities to identify them. It declares the reply of M. Drose to the recent interpellation of the Nationalrath, in which he declared that under no circumstances would Switzerland share with any power to police her own territory was unsatisfactory. It says, however, that the reply of the Bundesrath to the complaints of Russia and Austria was more polite and less polemic than was expected from the wording of the interpellation.

A Reduction in Commodity Rates.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

CHICAGO, June 27.—It is generally conceded that the low commodity tariff which goes into effect on business to St. Paul, July 5, will be extended to the Missouri River. The Central Iowa and St. Paul & Kansas City roads will carry the low rates as far west as Marshalltown. The Sioux City merchants are already demanding that they be placed on an equitable basis as compared with St. Paul and the Illinois Central is disposed to favor the reduction of rates demanded by its Sioux City patrons. A general reduction in commodity rates to all Missouri River points seems, therefore, inevitable.

An Application Denied.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—An application for the free entry of vessels and sand pumping apparatus for use in the improvement of Grass River, N. Y., has been denied by the Treasury Department as unauthorized by law.

INSURANCE BUSINESS ON THE LAKES.

An English Invasion is Anticipated Next Year by the Companies.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

CHICAGO, June 27.—When the general agents of the Marine Insurance Companies doing business on the great Lakes last spring agreed upon a tariff of rates for the season and pledged themselves to abide by the form of policy then in common use, it seemed that vesselmen had but two courses to follow—either to accept the companies' conditions, or let their floating property go uninsured. The insurance men looked complacently on the outlook for a season of good premiums and larger net profits. A Cleveland vessel owner objected to paying 3½ per cent. on first class steel steamers. He believed he could do better and went to an English company and asked for rates. He was given 2½ per cent. if $3,000,000 insurance could be placed in lump. The policy offered, with its highly favorable conditions, made the regulation lake policy look like no insurance at all. The Cleveland man laid his plan before the other owners and the $3,000,000 limit was quickly reached, and has been added to until the total lake insurance now placed through the London company is $5,000,000. The $5,000,000 is the cream of the Lake insurance business, and the Lake companies are wondering what they are going to do next year to meet the English invasion. It is estimated that of the $45,000,000 of floating property rated at Island Lloyds not over $25,000,000 carries insurance. It is not likely a fifth of this business will be permanently lost without an effort to regain. That effort must be either a reduction in rates or a radical change in Lake policies.

The Death Record.

General Simon Cameron died at 8 o'clock last evening. The General's condition during the day was rather encouraging, and death came suddenly from a weak spell. Up to the last attack he was conscious and had no trouble to swallow the food given him and which he appeared to assimilate. Around the death-bed were ex-Attorney General MacVeagh and wife, Mrs. Haldeman, James Cameron, Simon B. Cameron and wife, and Mrs. David Watts, a granddaughter. The funeral will be held in Harrisburg. Simon Cameron was born March 8, 1799, in the village of Maytown, or Donegal, on the Susquehanna River, in Lancaster County, Penn. His father's family and his mother's had been living in that neighborhood for several generations. His grandfather, for whom he was named, went there from Scotland in the company of his brother John and the Rev. J. Colin MacFarquhar, who long preached in the Presbyterian Church there. His mother's great-grandfather had already settled there when the Camerons arrived. He was a German—a hard-headed, determined fellow and his grandson, Conrad Pfoutz, Mrs. Cameron's father, was like him in his persistent determination to assert his rights. Conrad was an ardent "rebel" during the Revolutionary war, and is credited with having done some sturdy fighting against the British and Hessians. Simon Cameron used to say that he derived his fighting qualities, his disposition to "kick back," from the mingling of the doggedness of his German ancestors with the assertiveness of "the Scotch rebels," who made up his paternal ancestry. Whatever of mildness, or kindness, or willingness to submit to instruction even from adversity there was in Simon Cameron was the endowment of his mother. She was a good, patient, industrious woman, filled with high ideals, who helped a husband whom ill-fortune seemed to follow persistently, and aided her children to whatever education she had to impart when schools were lacking. Charles Cameron, her husband, was a country tailor, and his trade was not lucrative in a time and place ill calculated for foppishness. When his son Simon was nine years of age, and his son James about seven, he made up his mind that Donegal or Maytown, as it is variously called, was not a place to acquire wealth in. He journeyed with his family to Sunbury, but soon found it to be little more advantageous to him. Misfortune caused the breaking up of his family. Young Simon was adopted by Dr. Grahl, who proposed to make him his successor in the practice of medicine. To that end the doctor gave him opportunities to read, which were increased by the friendship of an Italian named Da Ponte, who had a small store at Sunbury and who is said to have become afterward the manager of an Italian opera company in this city. But Simon Cameron was not inclined toward the practice of medicine. He voluntarily left Dr. Grahl's household and apprenticed himself to a printer named Andrew Kennedy, who published a newspaper called the Gazette, at Northumberland. His work in the printing office was a severe strain on his weak body. Setting type was easy, but working the old-fashioned press on which the Gazette was printed racked him; but he stuck at it, for the determination to learn his trade was strong in him. After about a year Kennedy failed, and Simon, then 17 years old, started out for a new situation. He went to Harrisburg. On the way he half formed a project to journey to South America, where he thought fortunes were to be made easily, but in Harrisburg he met another printer apprentice, who assisted him to get employment in the office of James Peacock, who owned the Harrisburg Republican.

General Cameron's body will be taken to Harrisburg this evening on a special train leaving Marietta at 8 o'clock.

France's Opposition to English Scheme.

By Cable to The Freeman.

CAIRO, June 27.—The people of this City are irritated over the opposition of France to England's scheme for the conversion of the Egyptian debt because England would not consent to evacuate Egypt. The abandonment of the scheme will prevent a continuance of the works to improve irrigation by the waters of the Nile, and will also hinder a decrease in the rates of taxation.

WATERTOWN, June 27.—Rain came down in torrents in various parts of Jefferson County and Northern New-York last night, and cloud bursts are reported. There have been no trains on the Cape Vincent branch of the Rome, Watertown & Ogdensburgh Railroad this morning, on account of a serious washout two miles west of Chaumont.

LATROBE, Pa., June 27.—The work of clearing away the wreck here is progressing as rapidly as possible. At 11:30 o'clock the body of J. E. Cauldwell, engineer, and G. F. Fralich, fireman, were found lying alongside of the cab. This makes 12 bodies so far recovered. It is expected other bodies will be found as soon as the bottom of the creek is reached.

THUNDER, RAIN AND LIGHTNING.

A Terrific Storm in Milwaukee—Horses Killed and Property Destroyed.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

MILWAUKEE, June 27.—A terrific thunder storm struck this City last night and rain fell in torrents. Lightning struck a barn and killed three horses. It also struck several church spires. Vogel's tannery was struck and damaged by fire. A farm house in Wauwatosa was struck and burned.

Callers at the White House.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—With the falling off in the number of visitors at the White House due, doubtless, to the hot weather, the mail received at the Executive Mansion is increasing. The letters have increased in number perceptibly during the past four weeks and now nearly rival the volume received at the beginning of the administration when they surpassed all precedent. There is apparently no vacation near for the clerks at the White House. This morning the President was kept busy, although he saw comparatively few persons. Secretary Proctor called at 9 o'clock and remained for an hour and a half. It is supposed that the succession to the vacancy in the corps of Assistant Adjutant-Generals was one of the topics of discussion. Secretary Proctor gave way to Vice-President Morton, who claimed the attention of President Harrison for more than half an hour. This is Mr. Morton's first visit to Washington since his departure after the adjournment of the Senate. New-York affairs, doubtless, were considered during the conference. This impression was strengthened by the appearance later at the Executive Mansion of Senator Hiscock and Representatives Flood, Sawyer and Baker, all of New-York, who saw the President during the morning. Besides these Senator Spooner, of Wisconsin; Representatives Browne, of Indiana; Struble, of Iowa, and Delegate Carney, of Wyoming, called. Among the President's other visitors were General R. C. Schenck, Congressman Rice, of Massachusetts, and his son-in-law, J. Nye, of Chicago, the latter to urge the appointment of Charles H. Ham as Collector of the Port of Chicago; Editor Hollander, who was recently expelled from Guatemala, accompanied by Judge Rooney, of Brooklyn; Elliot F. Shephard, of the New-York Mail and Express; H. A. Wilson, Secretary of the Alabama Republican State Central Committee; a delegation of Chester County, Pennsylvania, Republicans headed by Dr. Huston, who wanted 10 minutes to speak their minds about appointments concerning their locality, and a delegation of District colored men in support of Perry Carson's application to be made Recorder of Deeds. The usual public reception at 11 o'clock was omitted. President Harrison will not go to Cape May to-morrow. Mrs. Harrison, with her father and her grandchildren, will return to Washington Saturday and go to Deer Park next week.

New-London is rapidly filling up with college men and friends of the various crews, and the indications are that the crowd on Friday will be larger by several thousand than at any previous race for several years. In to-day's races Harvard is looked upon as a sure winner of the Freshmen event, and the betting is now three to one. In the three-cornered event the crews are placed in every possible position and bets vary. The result of this race is a decided uncertainty, but each contingent of students is backing its own crew liberally. The Freshmen race will be rowed down stream at 5 P. M., and immediately afterward the three-mile race will be rowed up-stream.

Oil Brokers Bewildered.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

NEW YORK, June 27.—The new rules of providing for dealing in petroleum for future delivery on the Consolidated Exchange were put in effect to-day and resulted in completely bewildering brokers around the oil ring. The sales made in the regular way were for job delivery. The first transaction made was at 91½ and then no sale was made until 92¼ was bid. The first sale for cash was made at 92⅛ and after that bids and offers were so far apart that but little business could be transacted. One broker astounded the crowd by bidding ½ for "pipe line preferred," and another offered $25 to any one that would set him right in regard to the market.

Under this law physicians, who wish to serve as Examiners in Lunacy must file in the office of the Lunacy Commission certificates issued by Judges of courts of record in their respective counties, showing that they have been practicing physicians for at least three years and are of reputable character. The State Commissioners in Lunacy are present at the conference of the Superintendent and Managers of the State Insane Asylums taking place at the Willard Asylum to-day and to-morrow. Two Indictments Reported Found.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

CHICAGO, June 27.—It is reported the Grand Jury in the Cronin case found two indictments.

PEORIA, Ill., June 27.—Edward Spellman District Delegate for the Clan-na-Gael, in an interview in reference to the disbanding of Camp 20, of Chicago, states that the camp has not been disbanded, and will not be. He says: "If the State's attorney calls upon me for the records, I will produce them for him at any time. Camp 20 has no connection with the Cronin affair. The dead man was a member of Camp 234 and had not been a member of Camp 20 for over five years. The idea that he was tried by Camp 20 is an error. A member of one Camp could not be tried by the council of another. There is nothing in the records of Camp 20 to which we are not willing for the world to see."

A Decision by Attorney-General Miller.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—Attorney-General Miller has decided that a National Bank cannot be lawfully established in that part of the Indian Territory "lying within the jurisdiction of the Union Agency, which extends over the country occupied by the five civil tribes, notwithstanding the Bank Directors shall be citizens of the United States." The question arose on an application for authority to organize a National Bank at Muskogee, in the territory of the Creek Nation. The legal objections thereto grow out of treaties now in force between the United States and the Creek Nation whereby the national banking laws can be put in operation in that Territory only by special legislation.

An Old Millionaire Married.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

PHILADELPHIA, June 27.—Edward Levy, a millionaire of Omaha, and Angie Fackler, of Johnstown, Pa., were married here yesterday. Mr. Levy is 60 years old and the bride is over 50. They had been lovers for years and were to have been married the day after the great flood. Miss Fackler was imprisoned in the attic of her house for several days without food, but was finally rescued.

NOTES ON NEWS OF THE DAY.

REV. WILLIAM HOWARD, the boss electric sugar refining swindler, was taken from New York to Sing Sing yesterday handcuffed to a thief. He has now begun his service of nine years and six months.

PHILADELPHIA claims a population of 1,250,000 on the basis of the preliminary assessment of electors. If this claim is correct, it puts a check on Chicago's ambition to become the second city of the Union. After Chicago has annexed all the country for 20 miles around she will be able to show up not more than a million.

MISS MILDRED FULLER, fourth daughter of the Chief Justice, is to study law with her father as soon as she graduates from Wells College. It was "No. 5" who left her father for a visit to Chicago, and went from that city to Milwaukee to be absolved from her parental obligations and transferred to the state of matrimony by an humble Justice of the Peace.

THE President yesterday appointed Hon. William Walter Phelps United States Minister to Germany. He told Mr. Phelps that it was a personal appointment, intended as a reward for his services at the Berlin conference. Mr. Phelps's selection assures the most friendly and satisfactory relations between Germany and the United States as Mr. Phelps won golden opinions from the Emperor and his Chancellor.

THE Butler Club of Boston has presented to the state of New Hampshire a life size oil painting of Gen. B. F. Butler. The ceremonies took place at the state house in Concord yesterday, which was packed with spectators. Gen. Butler was born at Deerfield, N. H., and prepared for college at Phillips Academy, Exeter. He graduated from Waterville College, Maine. He will be 71 years old on the 5th of November—next election day.

ANNA DUBOIS of New York, who had tortured a weak minded child with a hot iron, was allowed yesterday by Judge Martine to plead guilty of assault in the third degree. In pronouncing sentence the Judge characterized her crime as a most fiendish and brutal one, and concluded by sentencing her to the penitentiary for one year and a fine of $500, to stand committed one day for each dollar till the fine is paid. This is the severest sentence provided by the law. Torturers of children do not have a happy life in New York.

THE Republicans are fighting the Bayard disfranchisement law on the ground of its unconstitutionality before the Delaware Court of Errors and Appeals. Under this law thousands of Republicans are disfranchised yearly by the simple act of leaving them off the assessment and refusing to accept their poll tax till the election has gone by. The court consists of four Democratic and one Republican Judge, but Senator Higgins, who is conducting the case, expects to get it in shape to appeal to the United States Supreme Court, where Mr. Bayard is not a boss.

MRS. IRA SMITH of Troy, on trial with her husband for arson, confessed yesterday that she committed the crime alone. The deed was done after she had taken a mixture of chlorodyne, laudanum, morphine and whisky to subdue the pain of a terrible disease, and while her husband was asleep under the influence of laudanum which she mixed with a dose of boneset tea. Mrs. Smith does not explain whether she ignited the premises with a match or with her breath, though the fire was started in twenty different places. Thirty-seven lives were endangered by her performance.

J. H. MANLEY has been reappointed Postmaster at Augusta, Me., Secretary Blaine's home office. L. B. Fowler, the Democrat to make room for whom Mr. Manley was removed four years ago, has been dismissed "for cause." One of the complaints was that mail matter was allowed to lie in the office three weeks without being "worked." Walter D. Stinson, a nephew of Mr. Blaine, is to be assistant postmaster. The people are greatly pleased to see Mr. Manley back in his old place, for he is a "hustler" in work as well as in politics, and they know that their mail will be delivered while fresh.

A REFEREE has ben appointed in the case of William Kemmler, the Buffalo girl-murderer, to take testimony in regard to the effect of an electric current upon the human body. A great many persons have been killed by electricity, but unfortunately they are not in a condition to testify; a great many persons have also been shocked and not killed, but they are equally at sea as to the necessary amount to effect instant death. How the machine will work will never be known till somebody has been fastened in it and the current turned on. If Kemmler is too good for such an experiment, his case might go over till the man who beat out a little girl's brains in Orleans county yesterday has been put "through the mill."

HON. CHARLES EMORY SMITH of the Philadelphia Press made so excellent an address at Union College Commencement yesterday on "The Degeneracy of the Times," showing by convincing arguments and a splendid array of facts and figures that the country is not going to the dogs, that the college conferred upon him the honorable degree of Doctor of Laws. Mr. Smith has hitherto been known as a Doctor of Newspapers, and the paper is invariably in a healthy state on which he bestows his professional services. But the laws need a good deal of doctoring and we shall be glad if they receive more of Mr. Smith's intelligent attention. This will be all the more valuable because he is not a lawyer.

DR. McDOW was the principal witness in his own murder trial at Charleston yesterday. He swore that he did not shoot Dawson until the latter had hit him with a cane and he became convinced that he had come to kill him. After the shooting he lost his reason, and spent a long time in trying to resuscitate his victim. After being convinced that he was dead he attempted to bury the body. He said that the Swiss maid, about whom the quarrel originated, had been represented to him as only a servant girl, and he had notified Dawson that he should speak to her until he showed his authority to prohibit him. McDow was terribly agitated when he began, but he became cooler as he proceeded, and told the most tragical part of his story with apparent unconcern.

Services to be Held at the Various Cemeteries in Johnstown.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., June 27.—A service of song in the various cemeteries is contemplated here before the State authorities quit the place on Saturday night. Sheriff McCandless, of Pittsburg, Colonel Hudson and others waited on General Hastings to-day with a view to having a day appointed for the purpose, but as yet the General has given no decision. The fact that very many of the unfortunates here, known and unknown, were buried without service has led to the suggestion, which is popular among the people here, especially among the State officers, who are anxious to take part in the affair before leaving.

At an informal meeting of the Masonic fraternity of Johnstown and Cambria City last night it was decided to close their relief stores and wind up the distribution of supplies to Masonic families. The two lodges have about $12,000 for distribution among families here.

PITTSBURG, June 27.—A communication has been received from James McMillen, Chairman of the Johnstown Finance Committee, and Cyrus Elder, Secretary of the Committee, in which the following statements are made: The Johnstown Finance Committee for the relief of sufferers by the flood would represent that there is urgent necessity for the prompt and wise use of the money which has been generously contributed by the country for the alleviation of the distress of our suffering people. Large as these sums of money are, they will be utterly inadequate to do more than mitigate the present distress, and to aid this community to make an effort for self help. The patience of the people has been unprecedented, and they are now beginning with courage to reconstruct, in temporary fashion, shelter for their families and places in which business can be carried on. It is impossible for the Committee or any number of committees to supply this community with the things it needs. It is really in need of everything, and the only practical way of helping it is to put into the hands of the individual members of the community that by which they can get what they need, not merely for subsistence, but all the various requirements of a people who are beginning life anew upon a devastated tract of land, on which once their fair City stood. Our Committee has been in receipt of contributions of money sent us from all over the country. We have used necessarily a portion of this money for the labor incident to the distribution of supplies of food, clothing and shelter, the collecting of statistics, etc. We have waited anxiously for some movement to be made on the part of the committees throughout the country having large sums in their hands, which would indicate what they intend to do with these funds. We can wait no longer. The necessity is so great for prompt action that our Committee has been obliged to adopt a plan of using our pittance of money for the immediate relief of sufferers. It has set on foot an accurate registration of all surviving sufferers, and it is proposed as an equitable and quick method of reaching their first pressing wants to divide the money which it holds equally among them. The sum which will be given to each will necessarily be small, but it will inspire them with hope that the larger amounts of money contributed for their relief may speedily become available, and it will give a better heart and a fresher hope to those who are now struggling to re-establish themselves in their lost employment and avocations. The position here is as follows: The working people are afforded ample employment, and as they are a people who owned their own homes, they are sticking to Johnstown in spite of their present privations. Our merchants, seeing this, are quickly opening their stores in shanties or board buildings of any type. We have thus on the one hand a community needing enough supplies from the merchants to enable them to do a good business, and on the other hand, the merchants making an earnest effort to supply this demand. If we can bring these two together and keep them together during the next 60 days our community will again be self-sustaining. But already the inability of the people to purchase is causing great despondency upon the part of the merchants, which, if not speedily checked, will cause further want and helplessness. There is but one method to check this, namely to furnish the people the funds with which to go to the merchants and make the purchase of that which will relieve them of their sufferings. Two needs are before us: First, to commence distribution immediately; second, to continue it on a basis equitable to all and satisfactory to the country.

Three bodies were found this morning.

Another Attack Upon Switzerland.

By Cable to The Freeman.

BERLIN, June 27.—The North American Gazette renews its attack upon Switzerland to-day. It charges that Switzerland promotes the advancement of social democratic ideas among the young men of the country. It says Anarchists without credentials are allowed to remain in Switzerland without effort on the part of the authorities to identify them. It declares the reply of M. Drose to the recent interpellation of the Nationalrath, in which he declared that under no circumstances would Switzerland share with any power to police her own territory was unsatisfactory. It says, however, that the reply of the Bundesrath to the complaints of Russia and Austria was more polite and less polemic than was expected from the wording of the interpellation.

A Reduction in Commodity Rates.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

CHICAGO, June 27.—It is generally conceded that the low commodity tariff which goes into effect on business to St. Paul, July 5, will be extended to the Missouri River. The Central Iowa and St. Paul & Kansas City roads will carry the low rates as far west as Marshalltown. The Sioux City merchants are already demanding that they be placed on an equitable basis as compared with St. Paul and the Illinois Central is disposed to favor the reduction of rates demanded by its Sioux City patrons. A general reduction in commodity rates to all Missouri River points seems, therefore, inevitable.

An Application Denied.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—An application for the free entry of vessels and sand pumping apparatus for use in the improvement of Grass River, N. Y., has been denied by the Treasury Department as unauthorized by law.

INSURANCE BUSINESS ON THE LAKES.

An English Invasion is Anticipated Next Year by the Companies.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

CHICAGO, June 27.—When the general agents of the Marine Insurance Companies doing business on the great Lakes last spring agreed upon a tariff of rates for the season and pledged themselves to abide by the form of policy then in common use, it seemed that vesselmen had but two courses to follow—either to accept the companies' conditions, or let their floating property go uninsured. The insurance men looked complacently on the outlook for a season of good premiums and larger net profits. A Cleveland vessel owner objected to paying 3½ per cent. on first class steel steamers. He believed he could do better and went to an English company and asked for rates. He was given 2½ per cent. if $3,000,000 insurance could be placed in lump. The policy offered, with its highly favorable conditions, made the regulation lake policy look like no insurance at all. The Cleveland man laid his plan before the other owners and the $3,000,000 limit was quickly reached, and has been added to until the total lake insurance now placed through the London company is $5,000,000. The $5,000,000 is the cream of the Lake insurance business, and the Lake companies are wondering what they are going to do next year to meet the English invasion. It is estimated that of the $45,000,000 of floating property rated at Island Lloyds not over $25,000,000 carries insurance. It is not likely a fifth of this business will be permanently lost without an effort to regain. That effort must be either a reduction in rates or a radical change in Lake policies.

The Death Record.

General Simon Cameron died at 8 o'clock last evening. The General's condition during the day was rather encouraging, and death came suddenly from a weak spell. Up to the last attack he was conscious and had no trouble to swallow the food given him and which he appeared to assimilate. Around the death-bed were ex-Attorney General MacVeagh and wife, Mrs. Haldeman, James Cameron, Simon B. Cameron and wife, and Mrs. David Watts, a granddaughter. The funeral will be held in Harrisburg. Simon Cameron was born March 8, 1799, in the village of Maytown, or Donegal, on the Susquehanna River, in Lancaster County, Penn. His father's family and his mother's had been living in that neighborhood for several generations. His grandfather, for whom he was named, went there from Scotland in the company of his brother John and the Rev. J. Colin MacFarquhar, who long preached in the Presbyterian Church there. His mother's great-grandfather had already settled there when the Camerons arrived. He was a German—a hard-headed, determined fellow and his grandson, Conrad Pfoutz, Mrs. Cameron's father, was like him in his persistent determination to assert his rights. Conrad was an ardent "rebel" during the Revolutionary war, and is credited with having done some sturdy fighting against the British and Hessians. Simon Cameron used to say that he derived his fighting qualities, his disposition to "kick back," from the mingling of the doggedness of his German ancestors with the assertiveness of "the Scotch rebels," who made up his paternal ancestry. Whatever of mildness, or kindness, or willingness to submit to instruction even from adversity there was in Simon Cameron was the endowment of his mother. She was a good, patient, industrious woman, filled with high ideals, who helped a husband whom ill-fortune seemed to follow persistently, and aided her children to whatever education she had to impart when schools were lacking. Charles Cameron, her husband, was a country tailor, and his trade was not lucrative in a time and place ill calculated for foppishness. When his son Simon was nine years of age, and his son James about seven, he made up his mind that Donegal or Maytown, as it is variously called, was not a place to acquire wealth in. He journeyed with his family to Sunbury, but soon found it to be little more advantageous to him. Misfortune caused the breaking up of his family. Young Simon was adopted by Dr. Grahl, who proposed to make him his successor in the practice of medicine. To that end the doctor gave him opportunities to read, which were increased by the friendship of an Italian named Da Ponte, who had a small store at Sunbury and who is said to have become afterward the manager of an Italian opera company in this city. But Simon Cameron was not inclined toward the practice of medicine. He voluntarily left Dr. Grahl's household and apprenticed himself to a printer named Andrew Kennedy, who published a newspaper called the Gazette, at Northumberland. His work in the printing office was a severe strain on his weak body. Setting type was easy, but working the old-fashioned press on which the Gazette was printed racked him; but he stuck at it, for the determination to learn his trade was strong in him. After about a year Kennedy failed, and Simon, then 17 years old, started out for a new situation. He went to Harrisburg. On the way he half formed a project to journey to South America, where he thought fortunes were to be made easily, but in Harrisburg he met another printer apprentice, who assisted him to get employment in the office of James Peacock, who owned the Harrisburg Republican.

General Cameron's body will be taken to Harrisburg this evening on a special train leaving Marietta at 8 o'clock.

France's Opposition to English Scheme.

By Cable to The Freeman.

CAIRO, June 27.—The people of this City are irritated over the opposition of France to England's scheme for the conversion of the Egyptian debt because England would not consent to evacuate Egypt. The abandonment of the scheme will prevent a continuance of the works to improve irrigation by the waters of the Nile, and will also hinder a decrease in the rates of taxation.

WATERTOWN, June 27.—Rain came down in torrents in various parts of Jefferson County and Northern New-York last night, and cloud bursts are reported. There have been no trains on the Cape Vincent branch of the Rome, Watertown & Ogdensburgh Railroad this morning, on account of a serious washout two miles west of Chaumont.

BERLIN, June 27.—Herr Lanique has been elected to the seat in the Reichstag for Metz, formerly held by M. Antoine, the French man, who resigned and went to Paris. Only 40 per cent. of the voters went to the polls. Lanique is a Municipal Councillor of Metz. He is a moderate in views and favors the observance of existing laws.

Further Particulars of the Railroad Wreck at Latrobe, Pa., on Wednesday.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

LATROBE, Pa., June 27.—The work of clearing away the wreck here is progressing as rapidly as possible. At 11:30 o'clock the body of J. E. Cauldwell, engineer, and G. F. Fralich, fireman, were found lying alongside of the cab. This makes 12 bodies so far recovered. It is expected other bodies will be found as soon as the bottom of the creek is reached.

THUNDER, RAIN AND LIGHTNING.

A Terrific Storm in Milwaukee—Horses Killed and Property Destroyed.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

MILWAUKEE, June 27.—A terrific thunder storm struck this City last night and rain fell in torrents. Lightning struck a barn and killed three horses. It also struck several church spires. Vogel's tannery was struck and damaged by fire. A farm house in Wauwatosa was struck and burned.

Callers at the White House.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—With the falling off in the number of visitors at the White House due, doubtless, to the hot weather, the mail received at the Executive Mansion is increasing. The letters have increased in number perceptibly during the past four weeks and now nearly rival the volume received at the beginning of the administration when they surpassed all precedent. There is apparently no vacation near for the clerks at the White House. This morning the President was kept busy, although he saw comparatively few persons. Secretary Proctor called at 9 o'clock and remained for an hour and a half. It is supposed that the succession to the vacancy in the corps of Assistant Adjutant-Generals was one of the topics of discussion. Secretary Proctor gave way to Vice-President Morton, who claimed the attention of President Harrison for more than half an hour. This is Mr. Morton's first visit to Washington since his departure after the adjournment of the Senate. New-York affairs, doubtless, were considered during the conference. This impression was strengthened by the appearance later at the Executive Mansion of Senator Hiscock and Representatives Flood, Sawyer and Baker, all of New-York, who saw the President during the morning. Besides these Senator Spooner, of Wisconsin; Representatives Browne, of Indiana; Struble, of Iowa, and Delegate Carney, of Wyoming, called. Among the President's other visitors were General R. C. Schenck, Congressman Rice, of Massachusetts, and his son-in-law, J. Nye, of Chicago, the latter to urge the appointment of Charles H. Ham as Collector of the Port of Chicago; Editor Hollander, who was recently expelled from Guatemala, accompanied by Judge Rooney, of Brooklyn; Elliot F. Shephard, of the New-York Mail and Express; H. A. Wilson, Secretary of the Alabama Republican State Central Committee; a delegation of Chester County, Pennsylvania, Republicans headed by Dr. Huston, who wanted 10 minutes to speak their minds about appointments concerning their locality, and a delegation of District colored men in support of Perry Carson's application to be made Recorder of Deeds. The usual public reception at 11 o'clock was omitted. President Harrison will not go to Cape May to-morrow. Mrs. Harrison, with her father and her grandchildren, will return to Washington Saturday and go to Deer Park next week.

New-London is rapidly filling up with college men and friends of the various crews, and the indications are that the crowd on Friday will be larger by several thousand than at any previous race for several years. In to-day's races Harvard is looked upon as a sure winner of the Freshmen event, and the betting is now three to one. In the three-cornered event the crews are placed in every possible position and bets vary. The result of this race is a decided uncertainty, but each contingent of students is backing its own crew liberally. The Freshmen race will be rowed down stream at 5 P. M., and immediately afterward the three-mile race will be rowed up-stream.

Oil Brokers Bewildered.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

NEW-YORK, June 27.—The new rules of providing for dealing in petroleum for future delivery on the Consolidated Exchange were put in effect to-day and resulted in completely bewildering brokers around the oil ring. The sales made in the regular way were for job delivery. The first transaction made was at 91½ and then no sale was made until 92½ was bid. The first sale for cash was made at 92⅞ and after that bids and offers were so far apart that but little business could be transacted. One broker astounded the crowd by bidding ½ for "pipe line preferred," and another offered $25 to any one that would set him right in regard to the market.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

ALBANY, June 27.—The members of the State Lunacy Commission are distributing throughout the State 9,000 copies of the law establishing the Lunacy Commission. The object of this is to have all County Superintendents of the Poor, the physicians of the State and the Superintendent of the Insane Asylums become conversant with the provisions of the lunacy law. Under this law physicians, who wish to serve as Examiners in Lunacy must file in the office of the Lunacy Commission certificates issued by Judges of courts of record in their respective counties, showing that they have been practicing physicians for at least three years and are of reputable character. The State Commissioners in Lunacy are present at the conference of the Superintendent and Managers of the State Insane Asylums taking place at the Willard Asylum to-day and to-morrow. The lunacy laws passed at the last session of the Legislature will be considered as well as proposed legislation to be submitted to the next Legislature for perfecting arrangements for the State care of the insane.

Two Indictments Reported Found.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

CHICAGO, June 27.—It is reported the Grand Jury in the Cronin case found two indictments.

PEORIA, Ill., June 27.—Edward Spellman District Delegate for the Clan-na-Gael, in an interview in reference to the disbanding of Camp 20, of Chicago, states that the camp has not been disbanded, and will not be. He says: "If the State's attorney calls upon me for the records, I will produce them for him at any time. Camp 20 has no connection with the Cronin affair. The dead man was a member of Camp 234 and had not been a member of Camp 20 for over five years. The idea that he was tried by Camp 20 is an error. A member of one Camp could not be tried by the council of another. There is nothing in the records of Camp 20 to which we are not willing for the world to see."

A Decision by Attorney-General Miller.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—Attorney-General Miller has decided that a National Bank cannot be lawfully established in that part of the Indian Territory "lying within the jurisdiction of the Union Agency, which extends over the country occupied by the five civil tribes, notwithstanding the Bank Directors shall be citizens of the United States." The question arose on an application for authority to organize a National Bank at Muskogee, in the territory of the Creek Nation. The legal objections thereto grow out of treaties now in force between the United States and the Creek Nation whereby the national banking laws can be put in operation in that Territory only by special legislation.

NOTES ON NEWS OF THE DAY.

REV. WILLIAM HOWARD, the boss electric sugar refining swindler, was taken from New York to Sing Sing yesterday handcuffed to a thief. He has now begun his service of nine years and six months.

PHILADELPHIA claims a population of 1,250,000 on the basis of the preliminary assessment of electors. If this claim is correct, it puts a check on Chicago's ambition to become the second city of the Union. After Chicago has annexed all the country for 20 miles around she will be able to show up not more than a million.

MISS MILDRED FULLER, fourth daughter of the Chief Justice, is to study law with her father as soon as she graduates from Wells College. It was "No. 5" who left her father for a visit to Chicago, and went from that city to Milwaukee to be absolved from her parental obligations and transferred to the state of matrimony by an humble Justice of the Peace.

THE President yesterday appointed Hon. William Walter Phelps United States Minister to Germany. He told Mr. Phelps that it was a personal appointment, intended as a reward for his services at the Berlin conference. Mr. Phelps's selection assures the most friendly and satisfactory relations between Germany and the United States as Mr. Phelps won golden opinions from the Emperor and his Chancellor.

THE Butler Club of Boston has presented to the state of New Hampshire a life size oil painting of Gen. B. F. Butler. The ceremonies took place at the state house in Concord yesterday, which was packed with spectators. Gen. Butler was born at Deerfield, N. H., and prepared for college at Phillips Academy, Exeter. He graduated from Waterville College, Maine. He will be 71 years old on the 5th of November—next election day.

ANNA DUBOIS of New York, who had tortured a weak minded child with a hot iron, was allowed yesterday by Judge Martine to plead guilty of assault in the third degree. In pronouncing sentence the Judge characterized her crime as a most fiendish and brutal one, and concluded by sentencing her to the penitentiary for one year and a fine of $500, to stand committed one day for each dollar till the fine is paid. This is the severest sentence provided by the law. Torturers of children do not have a happy life in New York.

THE Republicans are fighting the Bayard disfranchisement law on the ground of its unconstitutionality before the Delaware Court of Errors and Appeals. Under this law thousands of Republicans are disfranchised yearly by the simple act of leaving them off the assessment and refusing to accept their poll tax till the election has gone by. The court consists of four Democratic and one Republican Judge, but Senator Higgins, who is conducting the case, expects to get it in shape to appeal to the United States Supreme Court, where Mr. Bayard is not a boss.

MRS. IRA SMITH of Troy, on trial with her husband for arson, confessed yesterday that she committed the crime alone. The deed was done after she had taken a mixture of chlorodyne, laudanum, morphine and whisky to subdue the pain of a terrible disease, and while her husband was asleep under the influence of laudanum which she mixed with a dose of boneset tea. Mrs. Smith does not explain whether she ignited the premises with a match or with her breath, though the fire was started in twenty different places. Thirty-seven lives were endangered by her performance.

J. H. MANLEY has been reappointed Postmaster at Augusta, Me., Secretary Blaine's home office. L. B. Fowler, the Democrat to make room for whom Mr. Manley was removed four years ago, has been dismissed "for cause." One of the complaints was that mail matter was allowed to lie in the office three weeks without being "worked." Walter D. Stinson, a nephew of Mr. Blaine, is to be assistant postmaster. The people are greatly pleased to see Mr. Manley back in his old place, for he is a "hustler" in work as well as in politics, and they know that their mail will be delivered while fresh.

A REFEREE has been appointed in the case of William Kemmler, the Buffalo girl-murderer, to take testimony in regard to the effect of an electric current upon the human body. A great many persons have been killed by electricity, but unfortunately they are not in a condition to testify; a great many persons have also been shocked and not killed, but they are equally at sea as to the necessary amount to effect instant death. How the machine will work will never be known till somebody has been fastened in it and the current turned on. If Kemmler is too good for such an experiment, his case might go over till the man who beat out a little girl's brains in Orleans county yesterday has been put "through the mill."

HON. CHARLES EMORY SMITH of the Philadelphia Press made so excellent an address at Union College Commencement yesterday on "The Degeneracy of the Times," showing by convincing arguments and a splendid array of facts and figures that the country is not going to the dogs, that the college conferred upon him the honorable degree of Doctor of Laws. Mr. Smith has hitherto been known as a Doctor of Newspapers, and the paper is invariably in a healthy state on which he bestows his professional services. But the laws need a good deal of doctoring and we shall be glad if they receive more of Mr. Smith's intelligent attention. This will be all the more valuable because he is not a lawyer.

DR. McDOW was the principal witness in his own murder trial at Charleston yesterday. He swore that he did not shoot Dawson until the latter had hit him with a cane and he became convinced that he had come to kill him. After the shooting he lost his reason, and spent a long time in trying to resuscitate his victim. After being convinced that he was dead he attempted to bury the body. He said that the Swiss maid, about whom the quarrel originated, had been represented to him as only a servant girl, and he had notified Dawson that he should speak to her until he showed his authority to prohibit him. McDow was terribly agitated when he began, but he became cooler as he proceeded, and told the most tragical part of his story with apparent unconcern.

Services to be Held at the Various Cemeteries in Johnstown.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., June 27.—A service of song in the various cemeteries is contemplated here before the State authorities quit the place on Saturday night. Sheriff McCandless, of Pittsburg, Colonel Hudson and others waited on General Hastings to-day with a view to having a day appointed for the purpose, but as yet the General has given no decision. The fact that very many of the unfortunates here, known and unknown, were buried without service has led to the suggestion, which is popular among the people here, especially among the State officers, who are anxious to take part in the affair before leaving.

At an informal meeting of the Masonic fraternity of Johnstown and Cambria City last night it was decided to close their relief stores and wind up the distribution of supplies to Masonic families. The two lodges have about $12,000 for distribution among families here.

PITTSBURG, JUNE 27.—A communication has been received from James McMillen, Chairman of the Johnstown Finance Committee, and Cyrus Elder, Secretary of the Committee, in which the following statements are made: The Johnstown Finance Committee for the relief of sufferers by the flood would represent that there is urgent necessity for the prompt and wise use of the money which has been generously contributed by the country for the alleviation of the distress of our suffering people. Large as these sums of money are, they will be utterly inadequate to do more than mitigate the present distress, and to aid this community to make an effort for self help. The patience of the people has been unprecedented, and they are now beginning with courage to reconstruct, in temporary fashion, shelter for their families and places in which business can be carried on. It is impossible for the Committee or any number of committees to supply this community with the things it needs. It is really in need of everything, and the only practical way of helping it is to put into the hands of the individual members of the community that by which they can get what they need, not merely for subsistence, but all the various requirements of a people who are beginning life anew upon a devastated tract of land, on which once their fair City stood. Our Committee has been in receipt of contributions of money sent us from all over the country. We have used necessarily a portion of this money for the labor incident to the distribution of supplies of food, clothing and shelter, the collecting of statistics, etc. We have waited anxiously for some movement to be made on the part of the committees throughout the country having large sums in their hands, which would indicate what they intend to do with these funds. We can wait no longer. The necessity is so great for prompt action that our Committee has been obliged to adopt a plan of using our pittance of money for the immediate relief of sufferers. It has set on foot an accurate registration of all surviving sufferers, and it is proposed as an equitable and quick method of reaching their first pressing wants to divide the money which it holds equally among them. The sum which will be given to each will necessarily be small, but it will inspire them with hope that the larger amounts of money contributed for their relief may speedily become available, and it will give a better heart and a fresher hope to those who are now struggling to re-establish themselves in their lost employment and avocations. The position here is as follows: The working people are afforded ample employment, and as they are a people who owned their own homes, they are sticking to Johnstown in spite of their present privations. Our merchants, seeing this, are quickly opening their stores in shanties or board buildings of any type. We have thus on the one hand a community needing enough supplies from the merchants to enable them to do a good business, and on the other hand, the merchants making an earnest effort to supply this demand. If we can bring these two together and keep them together during the next 60 days our community will again be self-sustaining. But already the inability of the people to purchase is causing great despondency upon the part of the merchants, which, if not speedily checked, will cause further want and helplessness. There is but one method to check this, namely to furnish the people the funds with which to go to the merchants and make the purchase of that which will relieve them of their sufferings. Two needs are before us: First, to commence distribution immediately; second, to continue it on a basis equitable to all and satisfactory to the country.

Three bodies were found this morning.

Another Attack Upon Switzerland.

By Cable to The Freeman.

BERLIN, June 27.—The North American Gazette renews its attack upon Switzerland to-day. It charges that Switzerland promotes the advancement of social democratic ideas among the young men of the country. It says Anarchists without credentials are allowed to remain in Switzerland without effort on the part of the authorities to identify them. It declares the reply of M. Drose to the recent interpellation of the Nationalrath, in which he declared that under no circumstances would Switzerland share with any power to police her own territory was unsatisfactory. It says, however, that the reply of the Bundesrath to the complaints of Russia and Austria was more polite and less polemic than was expected from the wording of the interpellation.

A Reduction in Commodity Rates.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

CHICAGO, June 27.—It is generally conceded that the low commodity tariff which goes into effect on business to St. Paul, July 5, will be extended to the Missouri River. The Central Iowa and St. Paul & Kansas City roads will carry the low rates as far west as Marshalltown. The Sioux City merchants are already demanding that they be placed on an equitable basis as compared with St. Paul and the Illinois Central is disposed to favor the reduction of rates demanded by its Sioux City patrons. A general reduction in commodity rates to all Missouri River points seems, therefore, inevitable.

An Application Denied.

INSURANCE BUSINESS ON THE LAKES.

An English Invasion is Anticipated Next Year by the Companies.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

CHICAGO, June 27.—When the general agents of the Marine Insurance Companies doing business on the great Lakes last spring agreed upon a tariff of rates for the season and pledged themselves to abide by the form of policy then in common use, it seemed that vesselmen had but two courses to follow—either to accept the companies' conditions, or let their floating property go uninsured. The insurance men looked complacently on the outlook for a season of good premiums and larger net profits. A Cleveland vessel owner objected to paying 3½ per cent. on first class steel steamers. He believed he could do better and went to an English company and asked for rates. He was given 2½ per cent. if $3,000,000 insurance could be placed in lump. The policy offered, with its highly favorable conditions, made the regulation lake policy look like no insurance at all. The Cleveland man laid his plan before the other owners and the $3,000,000 limit was quickly reached, and has been added to until the total lake insurance now placed through the London company is $5,000,000. The $5,000,000 is the cream of the Lake insurance business, and the Lake companies are wondering what they are going to do next year to meet the English invasion. It is estimated that of the $45,000,000 of floating property rated at Island Lloyds not over $25,000,000 carries insurance. It is not likely a fifth of this business will be permanently lost without an effort to regain. That effort must be either a reduction in rates or a radical change in Lake policies.

The Death Record.

General Simon Cameron died at 8 o'clock last evening. The General's condition during the day was rather encouraging, and death came suddenly from a weak spell. Up to the last attack he was conscious and had no trouble to swallow the food given him and which he appeared to assimilate. Around the death-bed were ex-Attorney General MacVeagh and wife, Mrs. Haldeman, James Cameron, Simon B. Cameron and wife, and Mrs. David Watts, a granddaughter. The funeral will be held in Harrisburg. Simon Cameron was born March 8, 1799, in the village of Maytown, or Donegal, on the Susquehanna River, in Lancaster County, Penn. His father's family and his mother's had been living in that neighborhood for several generations. His grandfather, for whom he was named, went there from Scotland in the company of his brother John and the Rev. J. Colin MacFarquhar, who long preached in the Presbyterian Church there. His mother's great-grandfather had already settled there when the Camerons arrived. He was a German—a hard-headed, determined fellow and his grandson, Conrad Pfoutz, Mrs. Cameron's father, was like him in his persistent determination to assert his rights. Conrad was an ardent "rebel" during the Revolutionary war, and is credited with having done some sturdy fighting against the British and Hessians. Simon Cameron used to say that he derived his fighting qualities, his disposition to "kick back," from the mingling of the doggedness of his German ancestors with the assertiveness of "the Scotch rebels," who made up his paternal ancestry. Whatever of mildness, or kindness, or willingness to submit to instruction even from adversity there was in Simon Cameron was the endowment of his mother. She was a good, patient, industrious woman, filled with high ideals, who helped a husband whom ill-fortune seemed to follow persistently, and aided her children to whatever education she had to impart when schools were lacking. Charles Cameron, her husband, was a country tailor, and his trade was not lucrative in a time and place ill calculated for foppishness. When his son Simon was nine years of age, and his son James about seven, he made up his mind that Donegal or Maytown, as it is variously called, was not a place to acquire wealth in. He journeyed with his family to Sunbury, but soon found it to be little more advantageous to him. Misfortune caused the breaking up of his family. Young Simon was adopted by Dr. Grahl, who proposed to make him his successor in the practice of medicine. To that end the doctor gave him opportunities to read, which were increased by the friendship of an Italian named Da Ponte, who had a small store at Sunbury and who is said to have become afterward the manager of an Italian opera company in this city. But Simon Cameron was not inclined toward the practice of medicine. He voluntarily left Dr. Grahl's household and apprenticed himself to a printer named Andrew Kennedy, who published a newspaper called the Gazette, at Northumberland. His work in the printing office was a severe strain on his weak body. Setting type was easy, but working the old-fashioned press on which the Gazette was printed racked him; but he stuck at it, for the determination to learn his trade was strong in him. After about a year Kennedy failed, and Simon, then 17 years old, started out for a new situation. He went to Harrisburg. On the way he half formed a project to journey to South America, where he thought fortunes were to be made easily, but in Harrisburg he met another printer apprentice, who assisted him to get employment in the office of James Peacock, who owned the Harrisburg Republican.

General Cameron's body will be taken to Harrisburg this evening on a special train leaving Marietta at 8 o'clock.

France's Opposition to English Scheme.

By Cable to The Freeman.

CAIRO, June 27.—The people of this City are irritated over the opposition of France to England's scheme for the conversion of the Egyptian debt because England would not consent to evacuate Egypt. The abandonment of the scheme will prevent a continuance of the works to improve irrigation by the waters of the Nile, and will also hinder a decrease in the rates of taxation.

Heavy Rains in Jefferson County.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

WATERTOWN, June 27.—Rain came down in torrents in various parts of Jefferson County and Northern New-York last night, and cloud bursts are reported. There have been no trains on the Cape Vincent branch of the Rome, Watertown & Ogdensburgh Railroad this morning, on account of a serious washout two miles west of Chaumont.

Elected to a Seat in the Reichstag.

By Cable to The Freeman.

BERLIN, June 27.—Herr Lanique has been elected to the seat in the Reichstag for Metz, formerly held by M. Antoine, the Frenchman, who resigned and went to Paris. Only 40 per cent. of the voters went to the polls. Lanique is a Municipal Councillor of Metz. He is a moderate in views and favors the observance of existing laws.

A Daring Thief Arrested.

Further Particulars of the Railroad Wreck at Latrobe, Pa., on Wednesday.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

LATROBE, PA., June 27.—The work of clearing away the wreck here is progressing as rapidly as possible. At 11:30 o'clock the body of J. E. Cauldwell, engineer, and G. F. Fralich, fireman, were found lying alongside of the cab. This makes 12 bodies so far recovered. It is expected other bodies will be found as soon as the bottom of the creek is reached.

THUNDER, RAIN AND LIGHTNING.

A Terrific Storm in Milwaukee—Horses Killed and Property Destroyed.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

MILWAUKEE, June 27.—A terrific thunder storm struck this City last night and rain fell in torrents. Lightning struck a barn and killed three horses. It also struck several church spires. Vogel's tannery was struck and damaged by fire. A farm house in Wauwatosa was struck and burned.

Callers at the White House.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—With the falling off in the number of visitors at the White House due, doubtless, to the hot weather, the mail received at the Executive Mansion is increasing. The letters have increased in number perceptibly during the past four weeks and now nearly rival the volume received at the beginning of the administration when they surpassed all precedent. There is apparently no vacation near for the clerks at the White House. This morning the President was kept busy, although he saw comparatively few persons. Secretary Proctor called at 9 o'clock and remained for an hour and a half. It is supposed that the succession to the vacancy in the corps of Assistant Adjutant-Generals was one of the topics of discussion. Secretary Proctor gave way to Vice-President Morton, who claimed the attention of President Harrison for more than half an hour. This is Mr. Morton's first visit to Washington since his departure after the adjournment of the Senate. New-York affairs, doubtless, were considered during the conference. This impression was strengthened by the appearance later at the Executive Mansion of Senator Hiscock and Representatives Flood, Sawyer and Baker, all of New-York, who saw the President during the morning. Besides these Senator Spooner, of Wisconsin; Representatives Browne, of Indiana; Struble, of Iowa, and Delegate Carney, of Wyoming, called. Among the President's other visitors were General R. C. Schenck, Congressman Rice, of Massachusetts, and his son-in-law, J. Nye, of Chicago, the latter to urge the appointment of Charles H. Ham as Collector of the Port of Chicago; Editor Hollander, who was recently expelled from Guatemala, accompanied by Judge Rooney, of Brooklyn; Elliot F. Shephard, of the New-York Mail and Express; H. A. Wilson, Secretary of the Alabama Republican State Central Committee; a delegation of Chester County, Pennsylvania, Republicans headed by Dr. Huston, who wanted 10 minutes to speak their minds about appointments concerning their locality, and a delegation of District colored men in support of Perry Carson's application to be made Recorder of Deeds. The usual public reception at 11 o'clock was omitted. President Harrison will not go to Cape May to-morrow. Mrs. Harrison, with her father and her grandchildren, will return to Washington Saturday and go to Deer Park next week.

New-London is rapidly filling up with college men and friends of the various crews, and the indications are that the crowd on Friday will be larger by several thousand than at any previous race for several years. In to-day's races Harvard is looked upon as a sure winner of the Freshmen event, and the betting is now three to one. In the three-cornered event the crews are placed in every possible position and bets vary. The result of this race is a decided uncertainty, but each contingent of students is backing its own crew liberally. The Freshmen race will be rowed down stream at 5 P. M., and immediately afterward the three-mile race will be rowed up-stream.

Oil Brokers Bewildered.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

NEW-YORK, June 27.—The new rules of providing for dealing in petroleum for future delivery on the Consolidated Exchange were put in effect to-day and resulted in completely bewildering brokers around the oil ring. The sales made in the regular way were for job delivery. The first transaction made was at 91½ and then no sale was made until 92½ was bid. The first sale for cash was made at 92⅝ and after that bids and offers were so far apart that but little business could be transacted. One broker astounded the crowd by bidding "for "pipe line preferred," and another offered $25 to any one that would set him right in regard to the market.

ALBANY, June 27.—The members of the State Lunacy Commission are distributing throughout the State 9,000 copies of the law establishing the Lunacy Commission. The object of this is to have all County Superintendents of the Poor, the physicians of the State and the Superintendent of the Insane Asylums become conversant with the provisions of the lunacy law. Under this law physicians, who wish to serve as Examiners in Lunacy must file in the office of the Lunacy Commission certificates issued by Judges of courts of record in their respective counties, showing that they have been practicing physicians for at least three years and are of reputable character. The State Commissioners in Lunacy are present at the conference of the Superintendent and Managers of the State Insane Asylums taking place at the Willard Asylum to day and to-morrow. Two Indictments Reported Found.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

CHICAGO, June 27.—It is reported the Grand Jury in the Cronin case found two indictments.

PEORIA, Ill., June 27.—Edward Spellman District Delegate for the Clan-na-Gael, in an interview in reference to the disbanding of Camp 20, of Chicago, states that the camp has not been disbanded, and will not be. He says: "If the State's attorney calls upon me for the records, I will produce them for him at any time. Camp 20 has no connection with the Cronin affair. The dead man was a member of Camp 234 and had not been a member of Camp 20 for over five years. The idea that he was tried by Camp 20 is an error. A member of one Camp could not be tried by the council of another. There is nothing in the records of Camp 20 to which we are not willing for the world to see."

A Decision by Attorney-General Miller.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—Attorney-General Miller has decided that a National Bank cannot be lawfully established in that part of the Indian Territory "lying within the jurisdiction of the Union Agency, which extends over the country occupied by the five civil tribes, notwithstanding the Bank Directors shall be citizens of the United States." The question arose on an application for authority to organize a National Bank at Muskogee, in the territory of the Creek Nation. The legal objections thereto grow out of treaties now in force between the United States and the Creek Nation whereby the national banking laws can be put in operation in that Territory only by special legislation.

THE GRADUATES.

It is a noble achievement to graduate from some institution of learning, whether it be college, academy, scientific institute or any school of professional training. It tells of many years in the best part of life, spent in hard and wearisome study, not infrequently of a too heavy drain upon the vitality, one of the consequences of which is likely to be a serious risk for the future. It means a grand step taken in the preparation for that life of usefulness which every possessor of a well trained and disciplined mind hopes to live. It means the opening of many of the doors that lead into the ways of success, of honor and distinction. The too common practice of sneering at the bumptiousness, the conceit, the high expectations of the graduate fresh from the arms of his alma mater is cruel and unjust. The tired student is entitled to his day of triumph. It cannot last long, for in a little while he will be jostling with the world, and find himself in the position of a learner again. But he starts in the race with a big advantage. He has gained the lesson, never to be acquired out of school, that what he knows is but a drop in the vast ocean of knowledge, and the mental discipline to which he has been subjected fits him to continue a student and a learner always.

Just now, and quite naturally, the newspapers are full of narratives of self-made men, who have built up fame and fortune on very narrow foundations of learning. These stories have a tendency to encourage laziness in school and to justify ignorance, but they should not. The self-made man is an exception, and has risen by some transcendant quality of character which few possess. He does not remain ignorant. The man who died in Pennsylvania yesterday was one of America's greatest of self-made men. But though he grew up outside of the schools, beginning as a printer's apprentice and graduating in the institution as editor, he became learned, not only in public affairs, but in all that constitutes a practical education. He was an orator, a writer and a statesman, as well as a successful business man. When Simon Cameron is referred to as a self-made man, the answer should be that he became learned before he became great. And his learning was acquired by the same persevering and laborious study that the graduate has pursued. Does anybody believe that he would have been less successful if he had devoted a few years of his boyhood to academic studies?

Many graduates will find it necessary to return home and take up the labor that they laid down when they began school. It will be fortunate for them if they are able to adapt themselves to the changed conditions as readily and gracefully as "The Sweet Girl Graduate" whose story is told elsewhere. It may be that the proud-spirited graduate has yet to learn that all labor is honorable, and to cherish the lesson of the Preacher: "Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might." What if every graduate should inscribe this as his motto, in blazing lines across his diploma? Its truth lies, after all, at the foundation of every successful and every honorable life, whether that life was early adorned with academic learning, or begun in bitter poverty and toil.

A GOOD WITNESS.

The San Francisco Chronicle tells how a little girl vindicated her mother in a court room at Fresno, Cal. William Chrisman had lived with a woman whom he could not marry because one of the parties had been divorced. Jealousy of his brother caused him to desert the woman and the children of which he was the father, and the quarrel culminated in a lawsuit. In the court room Chrisman was very bitter towards his brother and the woman, and accused the latter of keeping a "dive." She denied it, and turning toward the bench, said: "Don't believe him, Judge. I raised my children as they should be." The Judge was willing to give her a fair hearing, and turning to her little daughter of three or four years, asked her: "Can you say your prayers?" Here is the Chronicle's account of what followed:

Then ensued a most touching scene. The little girl without a word climbed from her chair and knelt on the floor of the court room, with the policemen, spectators, judge and her father and mother around her, and folding her tiny hands and lifting her hands to heaven, she made the grandest defense of a mother's word possible. Slowly but distinctly, and without a tremor in her voice, the innocent little darling, born with the stain upon her, and discarded by her father, lisped in childish accents the Lord's prayer. As she proceeded, oblivious to her surroundings, and uttering that prayer which many of them had not heard for years, strong men bowed their heads and sobbed aloud. Finishing her prayer she added: "God bless papa and mamma and Uncle Duliss. Amen," and arose from her knees.

The case was settled, and had William Chrisman sworn a thousand oaths that his wife was bad he would have been disbelieved. It was several minutes before any one spoke, and then the Recorder fined the two brothers $15 each and dismissed the court.

The child was not old enough to be sworn, and could not have been received as a witness under the law. She could not understand the nature of an oath, but she did know the nature and meaning of a prayer. Such knowledge was not gained in a dive, and the Judge may well be praised as the Solomon of his time.

A THIRD TERM FOR FORAKER.

The Ohio Republican State Convention yesterday renominated Gov. Foraker for a third consecutive term. There were other candidates with a creditable display of strength, but among the great majority of the delegates was a strong undercurrent of preference for Foraker which assured him the nomination from the outset. The honor is almost without precedent in Ohio. The only Governor of that state ever elected to a third term was Rutherford B. Hayes, and his third term came after two other Governors had followedhis second term, and he was nominated with the special object of putting him in training for the Presidency. Gov. Foraker is put forward with no such object, but in answer to the overwhelming popular demand for the continuation of his services at Columbus. Foraker is not for Foraker for either President or United States Senator. For the former he is satisfied with the man now in the White House, and for the latter his openly and emphatically declared choice is Representative McKinley.

Gov. Foraker is the more popular with the Republicans because the Democrats hate him so cordially. They can never forgive the man who went into the army at sixteen, took a hand in fifty hard-fought battles, endured wounds and hardships, and won promotions for bravery seldom accorded to a boy. They hate him and call him "Fire Alarm Foraker" because his demand for an injunction to prevent the return of the rebel flags brought that proceeding to a dead halt. They hate him because the snub administered to him by the Clevelands at Philadelphia proved a boomerang for their party. They hate him for his very integrity which has given to his state an administration in such remarkable contrast with that of his predecessor, Judge Hoadly, that the taxpayers and all friends of honest government have been brought over to his side. He is one of the noblest, bravest and greatest of the younger class of Republican leaders. Ohio, the nursery of statemen and patriots, has produced very few men who can compare with Joseph B. Foraker in the possession of all the qualities that command admiration, affection and popularity.

Gov. Foraker was only 37 years old when he first ran for Governor in 1883, and was defeated by Judge Hoadly by 12,529 majority. In 1885 he was renominated against Hoadly and defeated him by 17,451 majority. In 1887 his Democratic opponent was a man named Powell, and he defeated him by a majority of 23,339. It was the popularity of his administration that defeated Democratic hopes in 1888 by a majority of 19,599, which the "Old Roman" was nominated to overcome. The Democrats are not indulging in any fond hopes this year, and will put up a free trader as a target for the wool-growers.

THE SWEET GIRL GRADUATE.

One Who Remembered Her Overworked Mother, and Proved a Comfort and a Blessing in Her Home.

[From the Springfield Union.]

Every town and almost every village is having, or has had, its high school graduating exercises, and from the various academies, seminaries and colleges, young women are being graduated, delivering their valedictory addresses and coming home. But "Vale" is not the word that will signify so much to them in a few months. It is farewell to school and college, which to so many meant work, and work of the pleasantest accompaniments, but now comes work of another kind, for which the school or college life, if rightly improved, has been a grand preparation. Young women have come home from college too much elevated above all vulgar earthly affairs, to know that bread was made of flour, or that butter was made from the cream of cow's milk, but let us hope there are none of these butterflies among this year's graduates. Many of these young creatures have been enabled to enjoy their educational advantages only by their mothers' managing and denying themfelves certain helps, and journeys here and there, or by leaving certain rooms rather shabby, when carpets, rugs and other furnishings more to their liking had been hoped for.

One lovely self-denying woman said to her neighbor, "It seems cruel for Hattie to come home and be obliged to go into my kitchen and wash dishes, when her tastes are all for affairs of a different character." But Hattie did come, and, although her tastes were refined, and the young girl was a treasure of a companion, she did go into the kitchen and wash dishes for her mother, and baked the bread, and insisted upon her mother going away for a long rest, and leaving the younger children home with her. She said "You have had a hard time but now you shall rest, for I know how you have worked to do all this for me," and she gave the tired mother a good hug. And while the mother was resting among the cool, green hills, how this treasure of a graduate cuddled the youngsters together, and what wonderful stories she told them, always taking care that they should not miss the mother too much. Now, this must have been hard, some will say, but the spirit in which she went about it, prevented any thoughts of hardship, and she played her very best selections tunes for these children, and sung them her very best songs. Her father, as he observed them all so happy, silently resolved that his children should have all the schooling they wanted, and said to himself that his wife knew best after all, what was good for a girl, and a big lump came in his throat as he remembered how he might have lightened the burdens of his good wife sometimes, but had thought it a piece of nonsense for the girl to go to college. It was a tender kiss that he gave her that night as they separated. But this was only one girl, and they are coming to their homes in great numbers, either to convince the fathers and mothers that they have done wisely for them, or otherwise.

Are you wasting slowly but surely away from the effects of female weaknesses? Are you wan, pale, and nervous? Do you not sometimes feel that life is losing its attractions, and that you are gradually sinking into a decline which, if not taken in hand promptly, will end in an early death? Yes, you have felt all these things, and doubtless know that tens of thousands of once rosy-cheeked, plump, healthy girls and women go into their graves every year solely because these weaknesses were allowed to sap up the well springs of life till nature could no longer stand the strain. There is not a sensible maid, wife or mother who will not appreciate as more valuable than gold and precious stones Dr Fontaine's new remedy PALMETTO, which is safe, sure, and speedy in curing the worst case of female weakness.

Mailed secure from observation on receipt of $1.00 I also have a full line of elegant Toilet Goods, including Face Cream and Jellies, Wrinkle Paste Fattening Formula, Auburnine, Depilatory, Acnine, Freckle Lotion, etc. Development of a beautiful form a specialty. Sealed circulars, 4 cents.

THE GRADUATES.

It is a noble achievement to graduate from some institution of learning, whether it be college, academy, scientific institute or any school of professional training. It tells of many years in the best part of life, spent in hard and wearisome study, not infrequently of a too heavy drain upon the vitality, one of the consequences of which is likely to be a serious risk for the future. It means a grand step taken in the preparation for that life of usefulness which every possessor of a well trained and disciplined mind hopes to live. It means the opening of many of the doors that lead into the ways of success, of honor and distinction. The too common practice of sneering at the bumptiousness, the conceit, the high expectations of the graduate fresh from the arms of his alma mater is cruel and unjust. The tired student is entitled to his day of triumph. It cannot last long, for in a little while he will be jostling with the world, and find himself in the position of a learner again. But he starts in the race with a big advantage. He has gained the lesson, never to be acquired out of school, that what he knows is but a drop in the vast ocean of knowledge, and the mental discipline to which he has been subjected fits him to continue a student and a learner always.

Just now, and quite naturally, the newspapers are full of narratives of self-made men, who have built up fame and fortune on very narrow foundations of learning. These stories have a tendency to encourage laziness in school and to justify ignorance, but they should not. The self-made man is an exception, and has risen by some transcendant quality of character which few possess. He does not remain ignorant. The man who died in Pennsylvania yesterday was one of America's greatest of self-made men. But though he grew up outside of the schools, beginning as a printer's apprentice and graduating in the institution as editor, he became learned, not only in public affairs, but in all that constitutes a practical education. He was an orator, a writer and a statesman, as well as a successful business man. When Simon Cameron is referred to as a self-made man, the answer should be that he became learned before he became great. And his learning was acquired by the same persevering and laborious study that the graduate has pursued. Does anybody believe that he would have been less successful if he had devoted a few years of his boyhood to academic studies?

Many graduates will find it necessary to return home and take up the labor that they laid down when they began school. It will be fortunate for them if they are able to adapt themselves to the changed conditions as readily and gracefully as "The Sweet Girl Graduate" whose story is told elsewhere. It may be that the proud-spirited graduate has yet to learn that all labor is honorable, and to cherish the lesson of the Preacher: "Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might." What if every graduate should inscribe this as his motto, in blazing lines across his diploma? Its truth lies, after all, at the foundation of every successful and every honorable life, whether that life was early adorned with academic learning, or begun in bitter poverty and toil.

A GOOD WITNESS.

The San Francisco Chronicle tells how a little girl vindicated her mother in a court room at Fresno, Cal. William Chrisman had lived with a woman whom he could not marry because one of the parties had been divorced. Jealousy of his brother caused him to desert the woman and the children of which he was the father, and the quarrel culminated in a lawsuit. In the court room Chrisman was very bitter towards his brother and the woman, and accused the latter of keeping a "dive." She denied it, and turning toward the bench, said: "Don't believe him, Judge. I raised my children as they should be." The Judge was willing to give her a fair hearing, and turning to her little daughter of three or four years, asked her: "Can you say your prayers?" Here is the Chronicle's account of what followed:

Then ensued a most touching scene. The little girl without a word climbed from her chair and knelt on the floor of the court room, with the policemen, spectators, judge and her father and mother around her, and folding her tiny hands and lifting her hands to heaven, she made the grandest defense of a mother's word possible. Slowly but distinctly, and without a tremor in her voice, the innocent little darling, born with the stain upon her, and discarded by her father, lisped in childish accents the Lord's prayer. As she proceeded, oblivious to her surroundings, and uttering that prayer which many of them had not heard for years, strong men bowed their heads and sobbed aloud. Finishing her prayer she added: "God bless papa and mamma and Uncle Duliss. Amen," and arose from her knees.

The case was settled, and had William Chrisman sworn a thousand oaths that his wife was bad he would have been disbelieved. It was several minutes before any one spoke, and then the Recorder fined the two brothers $15 each and dismissed the court.

The child was not old enough to be sworn, and could not have been received as a witness under the law. She could not understand the nature of an oath, but she did know the nature and meaning of a prayer. Such knowledge was not gained in a dive, and the Judge may well be praised as the Solomon of his time.

A THIRD TERM FOR FORAKER.

The Ohio Republican State Convention yesterday renominated Gov. Foraker for a third consecutive term. There were other candidates with a creditable display of strength, but among the great majority of the delegates was a strong undercurrent of preference for Foraker which assured him the nomination from the outset. The honor is almost without precedent in Ohio. The only Governor of that state ever elected to a third term was Rutherford B. Hayes, and his third term came after two other Governors had followedhis second term, and he was nominated with the special object of putting him in training for the Presidency. Gov. Foraker is put forward with no such object, but in answer to the overwhelming popular demand for the continuation of his services at Columbus. Foraker is not for Foraker for either President or United States Senator. For the former he is satisfied with the man now in the White House, and for the latter his openly and emphatically declared choice is Representative McKinley.

Gov. Foraker is the more popular with the Republicans because the Democrats hate him so cordially. They can never forgive the man who went into the army at sixteen, took a hand in fifty hard-fought battles, endured wounds and hardships, and won promotions for bravery seldom accorded to a boy. They hate him and call him "Fire Alarm Foraker" because his demand for an injunction to prevent the return of the rebel flags brought that proceeding to a dead halt. They hate him because the snub administered to him by the Clevelands at Philadelphia proved a boomerang for their party. They hate him for his very integrity which has given to his state an administration in such remarkable contrast with that of his predecessor, Judge Hoadly, that the taxpayers and all friends of honest government have been brought over to his side. He is one of the noblest, bravest and greatest of the younger class of Republican leaders. Ohio, the nursery of statemen and patriots, has produced very few men who can compare with Joseph B. Foraker in the possession of all the qualities that command admiration, affection and popularity.

Gov. Foraker was only 37 years old when he first ran for Governor in 1883, and was defeated by Judge Hoadly by 12,529 majority. In 1885 he was renominated against Hoadly and defeated him by 17,451 majority. In 1887 his Democratic opponent was a man named Powell, and he defeated him by a majority of 23,339. It was the popularity of his administration that defeated Democratic hopes in 1888 by a majority of 19,599, which the "Old Roman" was nominated to overcome. The Democrats are not indulging in any fond hopes this year, and will put up a free trader as a target for the wool-growers.

THE SWEET GIRL GRADUATE.

One Who Remembered Her Overworked Mother, and Proved a Comfort and a Blessing in Her Home.

[From the Springfield Union.]

Every town and almost every village is having, or has had, its high school graduating exercises, and from the various academies, seminaries and colleges, young women are being graduated, delivering their valedictory addresses and coming home. But "Vale" is not the word that will signify so much to them in a few months. It is farewell to school and college, which to so many meant work, and work of the pleasantest accompaniments, but now comes work of another kind, for which the school or college life, if rightly improved, has been a grand preparation. Young women have come home from college too much elevated above all vulgar earthly affairs, to know that bread was made of flour, or that butter was made from the cream of cow's milk, but let us hope there are none of these butterflies among this year's graduates. Many of these young creatures have been enabled to enjoy their educational advantages only by their mothers' managing and denying themfelves certain helps, and journeys here and there, or by leaving certain rooms rather shabby, when carpets, rugs and other furnishings more to their liking had been hoped for.

One lovely self-denying woman said to her neighbor, "It seems cruel for Hattie to come home and be obliged to go into my kitchen and wash dishes, when her tastes are all for affairs of a different character." But Hattie did come, and, although her tastes were refined, and the young girl was a treasure of a companion, she did go into the kitchen and wash dishes for her mother, and baked the bread, and insisted upon her mother going away for a long rest, and leaving the younger children home with her. She said "You have had a hard time but now you shall rest, for I know how you have worked to do all this for me," and she gave the tired mother a good hug. And while the mother was resting among the cool, green hills, how this treasure of a graduate cuddled the youngsters together, and what wonderful stories she told them, always taking care that they should not miss the mother too much. Now, this must have been hard, some will say, but the spirit in which she went about it, prevented any thoughts of hardship, and she played her very best selections tunes for these children, and sung them her very best songs. Her father, as he observed them all so happy, silently resolved that his children should have all the schooling they wanted, and said to himself that his wife knew best after all, what was good for a girl, and a big lump came in his throat as he remembered how he might have lightened the burdens of his good wife sometimes, but had thought it a piece of nonsense for the girl to go to college. It was a tender kiss that he gave her that night as they separated. But this was only one girl, and they are coming to their homes in great numbers, either to convince the fathers and mothers that they have done wisely for them, or otherwise.

THE GRADUATES.

It is a noble achievement to graduate from some institution of learning, whether it be college, academy, scientific institute or any school of professional training. It tells of many years in the best part of life, spent in hard and wearisome study, not infrequently of a too heavy drain upon the vitality, one of the consequences of which is likely to be a serious risk for the future. It means a grand step taken in the preparation for that life of usefulness which every possessor of a well trained and disciplined mind hopes to live. It means the opening of many of the doors that lead into the ways of success, of honor and distinction. The too common practice of sneering at the bumptiousness, the conceit, the high expectations of the graduate fresh from the arms of his alma mater is cruel and unjust. The tired student is entitled to his day of triumph. It cannot last long, for in a little while he will be jostling with the world, and find himself in the position of a learner again. But he starts in the race with a big advantage. He has gained the lesson, never to be acquired out of school, that what he knows is but a drop in the vast ocean of knowledge, and the mental discipline to which he has been subjected fits him to continue a student and a learner always.

Just now, and quite naturally, the newspapers are full of narratives of self-made men, who have built up fame and fortune on very narrow foundations of learning. These stories have a tendency to encourage laziness in school and to justify ignorance, but they should not. The self-made man is an exception, and has risen by some transcendant quality of character which few possess. He does not remain ignorant. The man who died in Pennsylvania yesterday was one of America's greatest of self-made men. But though he grew up outside of the schools, beginning as a printer's apprentice and graduating in the institution as editor, be became learned, not only in public affairs, but in all that constitutes a practical education. He was an orator, a writer and a statesman, as well as a successful business man. When Simon Cameron is referred to as a self-made man, the answer should be that he became learned before he became great. And his learning was acquired by the same persevering and laborious study that the graduate has pursued. Does anybody believe that he would have been less successful if he had devoted a few years of his boyhood to academic studies?

Many graduates will find it necessary to return home and take up the labor that they laid down when they began school. It will be fortunate for them if they are able to adapt themselves to the changed conditions as readily and gracefully as "The Sweet Girl Graduate" whose story is told elsewhere. It may be that the proud-spirited graduate has yet to learn that all labor is honorable, and to cherish the lesson of the Preacher: "Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might." What if every graduate should inscribe this as his motto, in blazing lines across his diploma? Its truth lies, after all, at the foundation of every successful and every honorable life, whether that life was early adorned with academic learning, or begun in bitter poverty and toil.

A GOOD WITNESS.

The San Francisco Chronicle tells how a little girl vindicated her mother in a court room at Fresno, Cal. William Chrisman had lived with a woman whom he could not marry because one of the parties had been divorced. Jealousy of his brother caused him to desert the woman and the children of which he was the father, and the quarrel culminated in a lawsuit. In the court room Chrisman was very bitter towards his brother and the woman, and accused the latter of keeping a "dive." She denied it, and turning toward the bench, said: "Don't believe him, Judge. I raised my children as they should be." The Judge was willing to give her a fair hearing, and turning to her little daughter of three or four years, asked her: "Can you say your prayers?" Here is the Chronicle's account of what followed:

Then ensued a most touching scene. The little girl without a word climbed from her chair and knelt on the floor of the court room, with the policemen, spectators, judge and her father and mother around her, and folding her tiny hands and lifting her hands to heaven, she made the grandest defense of a mother's word possible. Slowly but distinctly, and without a tremor in her voice, the innocent little darling, born with the stain upon her, and discarded by her father, lisped in childish accents the Lord's prayer. As she proceeded, oblivious to her surroundings, and uttering that prayer which many of them had not heard for years, strong men bowed their heads and sobbed aloud. Finishing her prayer she added: "God bless papa and mamma and Uncle Duliss. Amen," and arose from her knees.

The case was settled, and had William Chrisman sworn a thousand oaths that his wife was bad he would have been disbelieved. It was several minutes before any one spoke, and then the Recorder fined the two brothers $15 each and dismissed the court.

The child was not old enough to be sworn, and could not have been received as a witness under the law. She could not understand the nature of an oath, but she did know the nature and meaning of a prayer. Such knowledge was not gained in a dive, and the Judge may well be praised as the Solomon of his time.

A THIRD TERM FOR FORAKER.

The Ohio Republican State Convention yesterday renominated Gov. Foraker for a third consecutive term. There were other candidates with a creditable display of strength, but among the great majority of the delegates was a strong undercurrent of preference for Foraker which assured him the nomination from the outset. The honor is almost without precedent in Ohio. The only Governor of that state ever elected to a third term was Rutherford B. Hayes, and his third term came after two other Governors had followed his second term, and he was nominated with the special object of putting him in training for the Presidency. Gov. Foraker is put forward with no such object, but in answer to the overwhelming popular demand for the continuation of his services at Columbus. Foraker is not for Foraker for either President or United States Senator. For the former he is satisfied with the man now in the White House, and for the latter his openly and emphatically declared choice is Representative McKinley.

Gov. Foraker is the more popular with the Republicans because the Democrats hate him so cordially. They can never forgive the man who went into the army at sixteen, took a hand in fifty hard-fought battles, endured wounds and hardships, and won promotions for bravery seldom accorded to a boy. They hate him and call him "Fire Alarm Foraker" because his demand for an injunction to prevent the return of the rebel flags brought that proceeding to a dead halt. They hate him because the snub administered to him by the Clevelands at Philadelphia proved a boomerang for their party. They hate him for his very integrity which has given to his state an administration in such remarkable contrast with that of his predecessor, Judge Hoadly, that the taxpayers and all friends of honest government have been brought over to his side. He is one of the noblest, bravest and greatest of the younger class of Republican leaders. Ohio, the nursery of statemen and patriots, has produced very few men who can compare with Joseph B. Foraker in the possession of all the qualities that command admiration, affection and popularity.

Gov. Foraker was only 37 years old when he first ran for Governor in 1883, and was defeated by Judge Hoadly by 12,529 majority. In 1885 he was renominated against Hoadly and defeated him by 17,451 majority. In 1887 his Democratic opponent was a man named Powell, and he defeated him by a majority of 23,339. It was the popularity of his administration that defeated Democratic hopes in 1888 by a majority of 19,599, which the "Old Roman" was nominated to overcome. The Democrats are not indulging in any fond hopes this year, and will put up a free trader as a target for the wool-growers.

THE SWEET GIRL GRADUATE.

One Who Remembered Her Overworked Mother, and Proved a Comfort and a Blessing in Her Home.

[From the Springfield Union.]

Every town and almost every village is having, or has had, its high school graduating exercises, and from the various academies, seminaries and colleges, young women are being graduated, delivering their valedictory addresses and coming home. But "Vale" is not the word that will signify so much to them in a few months. It is farewell to school and college, which to so many meant work, and work of the pleasantest accompaniments, but now comes work of another kind, for which the school or college life, if rightly improved, has been a grand preparation. Young women have come home from college too much elevated above all vulgar earthly affairs, to know that bread was made of flour, or that butter was made from the cream of cow's milk, but let us hope there are none of these butterflies among this year's graduates. Many of these young creatures have been enabled to enjoy their educational advantages only by their mothers' managing and denying themfelves certain helps, and journeys here and there, or by leaving certain rooms rather shabby, when carpets, rugs and other furnishings more to their liking had been hoped for.

One lovely self-denying woman said to her neighbor, "It seems cruel for Hattie to come home and be obliged to go into my kitchen and wash dishes, when her tastes are all for affairs of a different character." But Hattie did come, and, although her tastes were refined, and the young girl was a treasure of a companion, she did go into the kitchen and wash dishes for her mother, and baked the bread, and insisted upon her mother going away for a long rest, and leaving the younger children home with her. She said "You have had a hard time but now you shall rest, for I know how you have worked to do all this for me," and she gave the tired mother a good hug. And while the mother was resting among the cool, green hills, how this treasure of a graduate cuddled the youngsters together, and what wonderful stories she told them, always taking care that they should not miss the mother too much. Now, this must have been hard, some will say, but the spirit in which she went about it, prevented any thoughts of hardship, and she played her very best selections tunes for these children, and sung them her very best songs. Her father, as he observed them all so happy, silently resolved that his children should have all the schooling they wanted, and said to himself that his wife knew best after all, what was good for a girl, and a big lump came in his throat as he remembered how he might have lightened the burdens of his good wife sometimes, but had thought it a piece of nonsense for the girl to go to college. It was a tender kiss that he gave her that night as they separated. But this was only one girl, and they are coming to their homes in great numbers, either to convince the fathers and mothers that they have done wisely for them, or otherwise.

The Funeral of Mrs. Hayes—What the New-York City Board of Health Has Done—A "Sawdust" Swindler Arrested — Crimes And Accidents in Brief, Etc.

The State Civil Service Commission concluded yesterday, for the present, its examination of the Mayors of several cities with a view to enforcing the civil service law in smaller municipalities where it is not now enforced. As a result of the examination of the last two days, the Mayors of Dunkirk, Jamestown, Hudson, Ithaca, Rome, Middletown and Oswego will at once draw up the necessary regulations for their respective cities and appoint local Commissions and Board of Examiners. They will be assisted in the work of framing regulations by Chief Examiner John P. Riley, who will visit the several cities named next month. These regulations will probably be submitted to the State Commission at its next meeting, on July 18. The State authorities will undoubtedly begin legal proceedings at once against Mayor Oliver, the recalcitrant, who announced on Tuesday that he refused to obey the law in spite of his oath of office. This refusal constitutes a misdemeanor punishable by imprisonment in the county jail for not to exceed one year or by fine not exceeding $500, or by both. The Mayors of Watertown and Schenectady will be subpœnaed to attend the meeting of the State Commission on July 18, and Mayor Garside, of Cohoes, will also be summoned to explain violations of the law in that City. At yesterday's meeting Mayor John Barden, of Ithaca, stated that the police in his judgment, in Ithica, alone could be placed under civil service rules and that was not advisabe. The City Collector received $300 salary and had to give $60,000 bonds, and the Treasurer received only $15 annual salary. He did not think the Civil Service law could be applied with advantage to Ithaca. General Sickles suggested that conditions might easily be such that the law should be applied there, and Mayor Basden assented to this. Mayor J. E. Iseman, of Middletown, stated the Common Council, not the Mayor, made all appointments in that City. He gave the list of municipal offices, and said that he would be glad to receive aid in applying the Civil Service law in the City. General Sickles explained the simplicity and efficacy of the law, and held that in Middletown it could be applied with advantage. Mayor John F. Dwyer, of Amsterdam, stated that the Common Council made all appointments. He believed the Civil Service law would be beneficial to Amsterdam, and he would be glad to aid in the application of the law. General Sickles said the purpose of the law was to guarantee citizens a competent and honest public service. Mayor James K. Stockwell, of Oswego, favored the application of the Civil Service law to his City. General Sickles assured him that in other cities the improvement was from five to 10 per cent. in the service. Mayor Oliver, of Rome, doubted the advisibility of applying the law in his City, but stated that he was willing to comply with the law and make a beginning, with the aid of the State Commission. The Commission then adjourned.

The funeral of Mrs. Hayes will take place at Spiegel Grove, the Hayes residence, at 3 o'clock to-morrow afternoon, and will be public. The services will be brief, and will be conducted by the Rev. Dr. McCabe, of the Ohio Wesleyan University. Dr. McCabe officiated at the marriage of General and Mrs. Hayes, and was also present at the celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the event. He will be assisted at the funeral by the Rev. J. M. Mills, the Pastor of the Fremont Methodist Episcopal Church. The house is so arranged that the officiating clergymen can stand in the front of the large hall, between the parlors, and speak so as to be heard by those within the house and those on the lawn, which is wide and level, and will admit of the attendance of 2,000 or 3,000 people. The bearers will be chosen from among the near relatives of the family. The interment will take place at Oakwood Cemetery.

The New-York City Board of Health made public yesterday resolutions which were adopted at the meeting held on the previous day, in which the attention of the Department of Public Works is called to obstructions in the sewer, and the bad drainage of the river front contiguous to Bellevue Hospital, and also to the open drain extending more than 300 feet from the shore line at the foot of West Fifty-Sixth-street. The last should be removed with all possible speed and a closed drain substituted. The Dock Department was informed of the nuisances created at Thirty-Third and Thirty-Fourth streets where extensive dredging is going on.

The New-York City Aldermanic Committee on Ferries and Franchises reported to the Board yesterday that a ferry should be established from the foot of West Thirteenth-street to Jersey City, for the purpose of making access to the new West Washington and Gansevoort Markets easier for farmers. The Board sent the report back, as some of its members understood that there was opposition to the ferry project which had not been given an opportunity of expression before the committee.

The Funeral of Mrs. Hayes—What the New-York City Board of Health Has Done—A "Sawdust" Swindler Arrested — Crimes And Accidents in Brief, Etc.

The State Civil Service Commission concluded yesterday, for the present, its examination of the Mayors of several cities with a view to enforcing the civil service law in smaller municipalities where it is not now enforced. As a result of the examination of the last two days, the Mayors of Dunkirk, Jamestown, Hudson, Ithaca, Rome, Middletown and Oswego will at once draw up the necessary regulations for their respective cities and appoint local Commissions and Board of Examiners. They will be assisted in the work of framing regulations by Chief Examiner John P. Riley, who will visit the several cities named next month. These regulations will probably be submitted to the State Commission at its next meeting, on July 18. The State authorities will undoubtedly begin legal proceedings at once against Mayor Oliver, the recalcitrant, who announced on Tuesday that he refused to obey the law in spite of his oath of office. This refusal constitutes a misdemeanor punishable by imprisonment in the county jail for not to exceed one year or by fine not exceeding $500, or by both. The Mayors of Watertown and Schenectady will be subpœnaed to attend the meeting of the State Commission on July 18, and Mayor Garside, of Cohoes, will also be summoned to explain violations of the law in that City. At yesterday's meeting Mayor John Barden, of Ithaca, stated that the police in his judgment, in Ithica, alone could be placed under civil service rules and that was not advisabe. The City Collector received $300 salary and had to give $60,000 bonds, and the Treasurer received only $15 annual salary. He did not think the Civil Service law could be applied with advantage to Ithaca. General Sickles suggested that conditions might easily be such that the law should be applied there, and Mayor Basden assented to this. Mayor J. E. Iseman, of Middletown, stated the Common Council, not the Mayor, made all appointments in that City. He gave the list of municipal offices, and said that he would be glad to receive aid in applying the Civil Service law in the City. General Sickles explained the simplicity and efficacy of the law, and held that in Middletown it could be applied with advantage. Mayor John F. Dwyer, of Amsterdam, stated that the Common Council made all appointments. He believed the Civil Service law would be beneficial to Amsterdam, and he would be glad to aid in the application of the law. General Sickles said the purpose of the law was to guarantee citizens a competent and honest public service. Mayor James K. Stockwell, of Oswego, favored the application of the Civil Service law to his City. General Sickles assured him that in other cities the improvement was from five to 10 per cent. in the service. Mayor Oliver, of Rome, doubted the advisibility of applying the law in his City, but stated that he was willing to comply with the law and make a beginning, with the aid of the State Commission. The Commission then adjourned.

The funeral of Mrs. Hayes will take place at Spiegel Grove, the Hayes residence, at 3 o'clock to-morrow afternoon, and will be public. The services will be brief, and will be conducted by the Rev. Dr. McCabe, of the Ohio Wesleyan University. Dr. McCabe officiated at the marriage of General and Mrs. Hayes, and was also present at the celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the event. He will be assisted at the funeral by the Rev. J. M. Mills, the Pastor of the Fremont Methodist Episcopal Church. The house is so arranged that the officiating clergymen can stand in the front of the large hall, between the parlors, and speak so as to be heard by those within the house and those on the lawn, which is wide and level, and will admit of the attendance of 2,000 or 3,000 people. The bearers will be chosen from among the near relatives of the family. The interment will take place at Oakwood Cemetery.

The New-York City Board of Health made public yesterday resolutions which were adopted at the meeting held on the previous day, in which the attention of the Department of Public Works is called to obstructions in the sewer, and the bad drainage of the river front contiguous to Bellevue Hospital, and also to the open drain extending more than 300 feet from the shore line at the foot of West Fifty-Sixth-street. The last should be removed with all possible speed and a closed drain substituted. The Dock Department was informed of the nuisances created at Thirty-Third and Thirty-Fourth streets where extensive dredging is going on.

The New-York City Aldermanic Committee on Ferries and Franchises reported to the Board yesterday that a ferry should be established from the foot of West Thirteenth-street to Jersey City, for the purpose of making access to the new West Washington and Gansevoort Markets easier for farmers. The Board sent the report back, as some of its members understood that there was opposition to the ferry project which had not been given an opportunity of expression before the committee.

The Funeral of Mrs. Hayes—What the New-York City Board of Health Has Done—A "Sawdust" Swindler Arrested — Crimes And Accidents in Brief, Etc.

The State Civil Service Commission concluded yesterday, for the present, its examination of the Mayors of several cities with a view to enforcing the civil service law in smaller municipalities where it is not now enforced. As a result of the examination of the last two days, the Mayors of Dunkirk, Jamestown, Hudson, Ithaca, Rome, Middletown and Oswego will at once draw up the necessary regulations for their respective cities and appoint local Commissions and Board of Examiners. They will be assisted in the work of framing regulations by Chief Examiner John P. Riley, who will visit the several cities named next month. These regulations will probably be submitted to the State Commission at its next meeting, on July 18. The State authorities will undoubtedly begin legal proceedings at once against Mayor Oliver, the recalcitrant, who announced on Tuesday that he refused to obey the law in spite of his oath of office. This refusal constitutes a misdemeanor punishable by imprisonment in the county jail for not to exceed one year or by fine not exceeding $500, or by both. The Mayors of Watertown and Schenectady will be subpœnaed to attend the meeting of the State Commission on July 18, and Mayor Garside, of Cohoes, will also be summoned to explain violations of the law in that City. At yesterday's meeting Mayor John Barden, of Ithaca, stated that the police in his judgment, in Ithica, alone could be placed under civil service rules and that was not advisabe. The City Collector received $300 salary and had to give $60,000 bonds, and the Treasurer received only $15 annual salary. He did not think the Civil Service law could be applied with advantage to Ithaca. General Sickles suggested that conditions might easily be such that the law should be applied there, and Mayor Basden assented to this. Mayor J. E. Iseman, of Middletown, stated the Common Council, not the Mayor, made all appointments in that City. He gave the list of municipal offices, and said that he would be glad to receive aid in applying the Civil Service law in the City. General Sickles explained the simplicity and efficacy of the law, and held that in Middletown it could be applied with advantage. Mayor John F. Dwyer, of Amsterdam, stated that the Common Council made all appointments. He believed the Civil Service law would be beneficial to Amsterdam, and he would be glad to aid in the application of the law. General Sickles said the purpose of the law was to guarantee citizens a competent and honest public service. Mayor James K. Stockwell, of Oswego, favored the application of the Civil Service law to his City. General Sickles assured him that in other cities the improvement was from five to 10 per cent. in the service. Mayor Oliver, of Rome, doubted the advisibility of applying the law in his City, but stated that he was willing to comply with the law and make a beginning, with the aid of the State Commission. The Commission then adjourned.

The funeral of Mrs. Hayes will take place at Spiegel Grove, the Hayes residence, at 3 o'clock to-morrow afternoon, and will be public. The services will be brief, and will be conducted by the Rev. Dr. McCabe, of the Ohio Wesleyan University. Dr. McCabe officiated at the marriage of General and Mrs. Hayes, and was also present at the celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the event. He will be assisted at the funeral by the Rev. J. M. Mills, the Pastor of the Fremont Methodist Episcopal Church. The house is so arranged that the officiating clergymen can stand in the front of the large hall, between the parlors, and speak so as to be heard by those within the house and those on the lawn, which is wide and level, and will admit of the attendance of 2,000 or 3,000 people. The bearers will be chosen from among the near relatives of the family. The interment will take place at Oakwood Cemetery.

The New-York City Board of Health made public yesterday resolutions which were adopted at the meeting held on the previous day, in which the attention of the Department of Public Works is called to obstructions in the sewer, and the bad drainage of the river front contiguous to Bellevue Hospital, and also to the open drain extending more than 300 feet from the shore line at the foot of West Fifty-Sixth-street. The last should be removed with all possible speed and a closed drain substituted. The Dock Department was informed of the nuisances created at Thirty-Third and Thirty-Fourth streets where extensive dredging is going on.

The New-York City Aldermanic Committee on Ferries and Franchises reported to the Board yesterday that a ferry should be established from the foot of West Thirteenth-street to Jersey City, for the purpose of making access to the new West Washington and Gansevoort Markets easier for farmers. The Board sent the report back, as some of its members understood that there was opposition to the ferry project which had not been given an opportunity of expression before the committee.

EDUCATIONAL MATTERS.

NEWS ABOUT TEACHERS, PUPILS AND SCHOOLS IN THIS VICINITY.

Graduates Given Good Advice—Exercises Held and to be Held in this City—Alumni Reunion at Ulster Academy Last Night—What Professor W. E. Bunten Said, Etc.

The third annual reunion of the Alumni Association of Ulster Academy was held last evening. A large number of former graduates gathered within the walls of their Alma Mater. The room in which the exercises were held had been prettily trimmed with flags. Back of the platform on a blackboard were the words "Alumni, 1889." Below this board was a stretch of wire netting, which was so thickly decked with daisies as to be hidden from sight. Nearly all the teachers and the President of the Board of Education, John B. Alliger, were present. The success of the reunion was in a large measure due to the class of '88, which is composed of the following: Frederick Webster, Frederick Coykendall, Louis Beers, Charles Quigley, William Canfield, William VanKeuren, George Decker, Leonard Kirchner, Caroline Brodhead, Anna Griffiths, Nellie Gallagher, Mary Kent, Mary Warner, Minnie Johnston, Emma Eichler, Mary Owen, Ida VanGaasbeek. An election of officers of the Alumni Association for the ensuing year resulted as follows:

Frederick Coykendall, '88....................President
Grace Van Buren, '87....................Vice-President
Ida McMillan, '82....................Secretary
William Canfield '88....................Treasurer

The retiring President, Wesley Thompson, read letters of regret from George A. Brodhead and Miss Sada Schutt, former graduates, of their inability to be present. The following musical and literary programme was rendered:

Instrumental duet, Miss Alice N. Alliger, Miss Elizabeth B. Romeyn; recitation, "Uncle Moses' Easter Eggs," Belle Rice; instrumental solo, Miss Margaret A. McMullen; declamation—"Curing a Cold," Frederick Webster; singing, with guitar accompaniment, Miss Lucie Pattison; instrumental solo, Miss Mamie Sampson.

Later on refreshments were served. The following toasts were given:

"The Board of Education," John B. Alliger; "The Alumni of Ulster Academy," Simon L. Newland, Class of '87; "Our Alma Mater," Louis Beers, Class of '88; "Higher Education for Women," Margaret F. Washburne, Class of '86; "The Dual City," L. B. Van Gaasbeck; "The Schoolmaster Abroad," George Decker, Class of '88.

Professor Bunten made an address. He said in part:

Alumni and friends of Ulster Academy: It is said that confession is good for the soul. I am sure refreshments such as we have received are good for the body and I believe on occasions thanksgiving may be good for both soul and body. And I wish now to thank the Alumni of this institution for the interest and regard they have manifested towards their Alma Mater. The Academy welcomes them once more within its walls and assures them it still is pleased to know of their prosperity, and to feel that it is honored by the record its graduates are making. You are illustrating the truth that intelligence and perseverance and pluck will always succeed. They are qualities that command success and are always at a premium. I also desire to congratulate the class of '88 for the delightful entertainment they have given us. We are pleased to be their guests to-night. I assure you one and all that we who are actively engaged in the work of instruction in Ulster Academy will have our hope and courage revived and strengthened because we know how well those who have been our boys and girls are doing and can do. We bid you Godspeed. Now I suppose human nature is about the same to-day as it has been since the first man was fairly evolved, let his original ancestry be what it may. Our progenitors of all time, whether they dwelt in caves or in marble palaces, whether they supplied their wants with implements of stone or of polished steel and burnished silver have enjoyed this occasion of festivities, and we take delight in the social gathering and enjoy the good things of this world. But seriously, my friends, we have come to the closing days of the school year. The solid work of the school room is practically finished and we may now pass judgment upon its results. I think I, as Principal, may say without vanity that I believe the year has been a successful one. We have not accomplished all we desired to do, yet I believe much hard work has been done and much progress has been made. For this great credit is due to the accomplished corps of teachers who have worked faithfully and well and in a manner most harmonious and agreeable.

I thank them for their cordial support and believe that much of the success that has been attained in Ulster Academy is due to the harmony that exists between all the departments of the school. I may be pardoned if I state that the last report of the Regents shows that during the year 17 State diplomas were issued to the students of this school, which I believe is the largest number ever received by any institution in this City during a single year, and now let me say that any teacher or body of teachers however faithful and earnest need the support of an intelligent and competent power behind them. We have always found the Board of Education ready to aid us in everything for the benefit of the school.

The annual address to the members of the graduating class of Kingston Academy was delivered last evening by the Rev. George E. Strobridge. He said in part: "The Creator says to every one coming into the world: 'You may do your best.' There have been those who gave no promise of success who have succeeded marvelously." Among the speaker's illustrations was that of an eaglet in the nest of geese, which, before it had learned to fly, was inspired by the sight of an eagle in the sky, the shadow of which fell about it, and which frightened all the geese away. "The ancients put the obolus in the mouths of their dead to pay their way across the river into Hades. Into every young man's brain is put a power which will help him pave his way to success, if he will. There is along the highway of life a station called prosperity, and a man may have the ticket in his hand and yet must push on in his endeavor in order to reach that station. There are three conditions of success. First, confidence. Have faith in success. Confidence gives assurance of success. The definition given by the boy that 'faith is being perfectly sure of success when you have nothing to back it up,' is a good one. Second, condition is purpose. Determine that a thing shall be for you and you will be likely to obtain it. Find out what your specialty is. No one ever made a failure who found out what he could do, and many a person has failed of success because he failed to do this. Some one asked Spurgeon how it was that he could write so many sermons easily. He replied, 'I get sermons out of everything, and before you leave I shall suck one out of you.' It is not the amount of mental capacity that a person has, but the investment of that capital. That is what success depends upon. Men who have carried their purpose have been men of one idea. The Irish orator Curran who had such a brogue he utterly failed when he attempted to make his first public address resolved to become an orator and finally became one of the most powerful of the British nation. The third element of success is manner. The way in which a thing is done often decides whether that thing shall be done at all." The speaker gave as principles that should be remembered. "We get back what we give. Manner is most of all goodness of nature. The dancing master should not have a monopoly of good manners." In closing Mr. Strobridge enforced the idea that after all high character is the best success, and he appealed to the graduates to strive for that success, by having confidence, by having a purpose and a manner.

Closing exercises of School No. 8 will be held by the Senior, Junior and Primary Departments in Kingston Opera House at 2 o'clock to-morrow afternoon. The following is the programme:

Class Day exercises of Kingston Academy were held this afternoon in Academy Hall. An interesting programme was rendered. The opening address was made by Edward McKiernan; class history, by Ada Winne; class oration, by Schuyler Schultz; presentation of the "Key of Knowledge," by Edith VanNostrand; acceptance of the "Key of Knowledge," by Frederick Perrine; Class prophecy, by Mary E. Murphy. The "reading of the will," by Frank Davis, "attorney," and the sun-flower song were unique features of the exercises. The will contained many remarkable bequests, and created amusement. Previous to the singing of the sun-flower song a curtain, in which 25 holes had been cut, was hung in front of the stage. Around each hole leaves of sun-flowers had been painted. The 25 members of the class placed their heads in the holes, thus representing "full bloom sun-flowers." The class poem was read by Perlina K. Hendricks, as follows:

With eager eyes we look out afar
Trying to read by the light so dim
The title page of the future hymn
Of our lives.

As a brook to the valley rushing,
Breaking forth from its rocky fountain,
The echoing laugh of the mountain,
So are we.

Whither away, O turbulent stream!
Goest thou along the mountain trail
Forever seeking that twilight vale
Of to-morrow?

Knowest thou that thy crystal water
Shall mingle in the ocean of life
Which is stirred with the struggle and strife
Of time?

Know'st thou not that this world is fleeting?
All through the woods and mountain passes
The winds are chanting solemn masses
For fading leaves?

But we have days and years before us;
Shall we no weave some high ambition
To wing us on to glad frutition,
Of every hope?

The field of endeavor confronts us,
All its paths beckoning on to fame,
Who of us shall achieve a great name
In life's forge?

In these rooms the fires have been lighted
Every mind has been carefully bent.
Lofty purpose now awaits on intent,
With laurels in reach.

Then let us all press on for the prize.
Honor's chaplet, so eagerly sought,
Can only with great effort be bought
By mankind.

The Libel Law Discussed and Certain Recommendations Made—A Hop, Etc.

The afternoon session yesterday was wholly devoted to the consideration of the law of libel. Carroll E. Smith, Chairman of the Committee on Libel, submitted the following report, signed by himself, William A. Clarke, Ira A. Wales, A. C. Keisinger, Charles R. Skinner, and S. C. Keisinger:

It is recommended that the Association approve and urge upon the Legislature an amendment to the code, to be perfected and laid before the next session of the Legislature, to be applied to the general subject of libel, and that it shall embody the following propositions:

First—An action, civil or criminal, cannot be maintained against a reporter, editor, publisher or proprietor of a newspaper for the publication therein of a fair and true report of any judicial, legislative or other public and official proceedings, or of any public meetings or assemblages, without proving actual malice in making the report.

Second—In any action for the publication of a libel in any newspaper, periodical or magazine in this State, if it shall appear upon the trial of the action that the libelous matter was published in good faith, that its falsity was due to mistake or misapprehension, and that a full and fair retraction of any statement alleged to be libelous was published in the case of a daily newspaper within three days, or in the case of any other newspaper, magazine or periodical in the first or second publication thereof after such mistake or error was an erroneous statement was brought to the knowledge of the proprietor or the editor of such newspaper, magazine or or other periodical, as conspicuously as was the article complained of. Then and in such case such retraction shall be admitted in justification and in mitigation, and the plaintiff shall recover only actual damages. The words "actual damages" within the section shall be construed to include only such damages as the plaintiff may show he has suffered in his property, business, trade or occupation.

Third—In an action for libel for slander, before issuing the summons therein, an undertaking on the part of the plaintiff in the sum of $25,000, with two competent and sufficient sureties, shall be executed and filed with the Clerk of the County in which the action shall be brought to the effect that if the action shall be dismissed, or the defendant recover judgment, they shall pay such costs and disbursements as may be awarded against the plaintiff, not exceeding $250, and said undertaking having been filed, the said Clerk shall indorse the fact of such undertaking having been filed with him upon the summons in such case before it shall be valid and effective.

Fourth—That civil action for the publication of a libel shall be brought in either the county wherein is located and published either the newspaper, magazine, or periodical against which the action is taken or in the County where the complainant resides.

Fifth—Presumption of malice shall not rest in the fact of publication alone.

The Association adopted the report by a unanimous vote.

A hop was given in the Opera House of the Hotel Kaaterskill last night.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

NEW-YORK, June 27.—The stock market this morning was somewhat more active, especially for the regular list, than yesterday, but first prices were generally ⅛ to ⅜ per cent. lower than last evening's figures. In the regular list the animation was confined principally to St. Paul, Reading, New-England, Atchison, Rock Island and the newly listed Wisconsin Central stock. Among the trusts, lead and cotton oil were still very active, but sugar was unusually quiet. It was strong, however, and rose 1 per cent. to 115½, while the others were without special feature. The regular list presented a firm front, but the fluctuations were small, except in San Francisco preferred, Wisconsin Central and New-England, the first two of which rose 1 per cent. each, and the last named ⅜. At 11 o'clock the market was dull and firm.

The Price of Coal Increased—Convictions in Recorder's Court—An Armenian to Speak In the Wurts-Street Presbyterian Church This Evening—Bell Brought to this City.

There was a pretty wedding in the Fair-Street Reformed Church last evening. Miss Julia M. Chipp, daughter of J. Deyo Chipp, of this City, and William Lounsberry, of Stone Ridge, were the contracting parties. The Rev. S. D. Noyes officiated. The bride wore a dress of cream nun's veiling, trimmed with cream surah and lace. The ushers were Dr. C. W. Crispell, John Middagh, TenEyck Newkirk and William Chipp. A reception followed at the residence of the bride's father. The house was decorated with flowers. There were many valuable and useful presents. Mr. and Mrs. Lounsberry will reside at Stone Ridge.

The Young Men's Christian Association Committee on State Military Camp has issued the following to the members of the National Guard of the State of New-York:

GENTLEMEN: The work under the direction of the State Committee of Young Men's Christian Associations on the grounds adjoining the State Camp at Peekskill, has been so thoroughly appreciated by the men for the past two years, that it is proposed to continue it again this year. You will find a large tent where you may spend any leisure time, supplied with games and puzzles; the latest magazines, papers fresh from home, also tables and conveniences for letter writing. A valuable collection of books for a circulating library has also been secured. A tennis court adjoins the tents; tennis and base balls, rackets and bats, and all needful paraphernalia will be furnished. With consent of the chaplains, attractive religious services will be held when advisable. A. E. Flindt, of Brooklyn, N. Y., and O. J. Clark, Secretary Y. M. C. A., Matteawan, N. Y., will have charge of the work, and be glad to meet every man personally, and be of such service as they may be able. It will greatly aid us if you will endeavor to arrange before leaving home at least one musical or literary entertainment, to be given in the tent during the week of your encampment. This feature last year was very pleasurable. Make known these privileges, and the fact that they are free to all members of the National Guard. The Committee's expenses last year were $360.35. A portion of this amount was contributed by the men by collections and voluntary contributions.

The following communication has been received by THE FREEMAN:

BOSTON, Mass., June 25, 1889.

Mr. Editor—The kind words expressed towards the poor canaller in a late edition of your valuable paper meets with my hearty commendation. After 40 years' drifting about the world, I am able to say in truth that there are many people who make worse citizens than the poor canaller, in whose companionship I labored for five years of my early life. The picture of that life, as it hangs upon the wall of my memory, is most vivid, and stirs the heart with sympathy for those who are trying to get a foothold upon the lowest rung of life's ladder. How many poor orphan boys like myself have reason to give thanks for the sympathy and assistance they have received in their early days from the poor canaller, when the professional Christian had shown him the cold shoulder. The true Christian will ever try to elevate his brother by sympathy and love, and not by scorn. Your defense of the poor canaller merits the approval of all good men, and as a graduate of '49 you have my sincere thanks. Yours truly,

D. G. DESMOND.

Officer Westbrook brought Daniel D. Bell to the Ulster County Jail this morning. Bell will be resentenced by Judge Fursman, of Troy, in the Court of Sessions here on Saturday. Bell was convicted at the March Court of Sessions of forging a deed. He was sentenced to confinement in Clinton States Prison by Judge Fursman. Later on it was ascertained that by some miscalculation the sentence did not comply with the statute, which requires the sentence, taking into account the abbreviation of the term by good behavior, to expire between March 1 and November 1, so the prisoner would not be discharged in the winter season. This required a resentence before the same Court, and the same presiding Judge will perform that duty.

The New-York Times says that the price of coal was increased yesterday at a meeting of the sales agents held at the office of the Delaware & Hudson Canal Company, New-York City. Those at the meeting were James C. Hart, of the Delaware & Hudson; Thomas M. Richards, of the Reading Company; W. H. Streit, of the Pennsylvania Coal Company; John F. Wilson, of the Lehigh & Wilkesbarre Coal Company; R. H. Holden, of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, and W. H. Sayre, of the Lehigh Valley Company. They decided to advance grate coal 5 cents, to $3.90 per ton; chestnut 15 cents, to $4.15; stove 15 cents, to $4.45, and egg 10 cents, to $4.10. This is the second advance within a few weeks.

The next meeting will be held in the office of Frederick Stephan, Jr., on Tuesday evening, July 2.

The following from the Poughkeepsie Eagle has a local bearing: "The suggestion thrown out by the Eagle some time ago that signs bearing the names of streets be put at the corners, where none have been before, and old faded ones be repainted, is being acted upon. In many places neat signs have already been put up."

NEWS ABOUT TEACHERS, PUPILS AND SCHOOLS IN THIS VICINITY.

Graduates Given Good Advice—Exercises Held and to be Held in this City—Alumni Reunion at Ulster Academy Last Night—What Professor W. E. Bunten Said, Etc.

The third annual reunion of the Alumni Association of Ulster Academy was held last evening. A large number of former graduates gathered within the walls of their Alma Mater. The room in which the exercises were held had been prettily trimmed with flags. Back of the platform on a blackboard were the words "Alumni, 1889." Below this board was a stretch of wire netting, which was so thickly decked with daisies as to be hidden from sight. Nearly all the teachers and the President of the Board of Education, John B. Alliger, were present. The success of the reunion was in a large measure due to the class of '88, which is composed of the following: Frederick Webster, Frederick Coykendall, Louis Beers, Charles Quigley, William Canfield, William VanKeuren, George Decker, Leonard Kirchner, Caroline Brodhead, Anna Griffiths, Nellie Gallagher, Mary Kent, Mary Warner, Minnie Johnston, Emma Eichler, Mary Owen, Ida VanGaasbeck. An election of officers of the Alumni Association for the ensuing year resulted as follows:

Frederick Coykendall, '88.................President
Grace Van Buren, '87..................Vice-President
Ida McMillan, '82..........................Secretary
William Canfield '88........................Treasurer

The retiring President, Wesley Thompson, read letters of regret from George A. Brodhead and Miss Sada Schutt, former graduates, of their inability to be present. The following musical and literary programme was rendered:

Instrumental duet, Miss Alice N. Alliger, Miss Elizabeth B. Romeyn; recitation, "Uncle Moses' Easter Eggs," Belle Rice; instrumental solo, Miss Margaret A. McMullen; declamation—"Curing a Cold," Frederick Webster; singing, with guitar accompaniment, Miss Lucie Pattison; instrumental solo, Miss Mamie Sampson.

Later on refreshments were served. The following toasts were given:

"The Board of Education," John B. Alliger; "The Alumni of Ulster Academy," Simon L. Newland, Class of '87; "Our Alma Mater," Louis Beers, Class of '88; "Higher Education for Women," Margaret F. Washburne, Class of '86; "The Dual City," L. B. Van Gaasbeck; "The Schoolmaster Abroad," George Decker, Class of '88.

Professor Bunten made an address. He said in part:

Alumni and friends of Ulster Academy: It is said that confession is good for the soul. I am sure refreshments such as we have received are good for the body and I believe on occasions thanksgiving may be good for both soul and body. And I wish now to thank the Alumni of this institution for the interest and regard they have manifested towards their Alma Mater. The Academy welcomes them once more within its walls and assures them it still is pleased to know of their prosperity, and to feel that it is honored by the record its graduates are making. You are illustrating the truth that intelligence and perseverance and pluck will always succeed. They are qualities that command success and are always at a premium. I also desire to congratulate the class of '88 for the delightful entertainment they have given us. We are pleased to be their guests to-night. I assure you one and all that we who are actively engaged in the work of instruction in Ulster Academy will have our hope and courage revived and strengthened because we know how well those who have been our boys and girls are doing and can do. We bid you Godspeed. Now I suppose human nature is about the same today as it has been since the first man was fairly evolved, let his original ancestry be what it may. Our projenitors of all time, whether they dwelt in caves or in marble palaces, whether they supplied their wants with implements of stone or of polished steel and burnished silver have enjoyed this occasion of festivities, and we take delight in the social gathering and enjoy the good things of this world. But seriously, my friends, we have come to the closing days of the school year. The solid work of the school room is practically finished and we may now pass judgment upon its results. I think I, as Principal, may say without vanity that I believe the year has been a successful one. We have not accomplished all we desired to do, yet I believe much hard work has been done and much progress has been made. For this great credit is due to the accomplished corps of teachers who have worked faithfully and well and in a manner most harmonious and agreeable.

I thank them for their cordial support and believe that much of the success that has been attained in Ulster Academy is due to the harmony that exists between all the departments of the school. I may be pardoned if I state that the last report of the Regents shows that during the year 17 State diplomas were issued to the students of this school, which I believe is the largest number ever received by any institution in this City during a single year, and now let me say that any teacher or body of teachers however faithful and earnest need the support of an intelligent and competent power behind them. We have always found the Board of Education ready to aid us in everything for the benefit of the school.

The annual address to the members of the graduating class of Kingston Academy was delivered last evening by the Rev. George E. Strobridge. He said in part: "The Creator says to every one coming into the world: 'You may do your best.' There have been those who gave no promise of success who have succeeded marvelously." Among the speaker's illustrations was that of an eaglet in the nest of geese, which, before it had learned to fly, was inspired by the sight of an eagle in the sky, the shadow of which fell about it, and which frightened all the geese away. "The ancients put the obolus in the mouths of their dead to pay their way across the river into Hades. Into every young man's brain is put a power which will help him pave his way to success, if he will. There is along the highway of life a station called prosperity, and a man may have the ticket in his hand and yet must push on in his endeavor in order to reach that station. There are three conditions of success. First, confidence. Have faith in success. Confidence gives assurance of success. The definition given by the boy that 'faith is being perfectly sure of success when you have nothing to back it up,' is a good one. Second, condition is purpose. Determine that a thing shall be for you and you will be likely to obtain it. Find out what your specialty is. No one ever made a failure who found out what he could do, and many a person has failed of success because he failed to do this. Some one asked Spurgeon how it was that he could write so many sermons easily. He replied, 'I get sermons out of everything, and before you leave I shall suck one out of you.' It is not the amount of mental capacity that a person has, but the investment of that capital. That is what success depends upon. Men who have carried their purpose have been men of one idea. The Irish orator Curran who had such a brogue he utterly failed when he attempted to make his first public address resolved to become an orator and finally became one of the most powerful of the British nation. The third element of success is manner. The way in which a thing is done often decides whether that thing shall be done at all." The speaker gave as principles that should be remembered. "We get back what we give. Manner is most of all goodness of nature. The dancing master should not have a monopoly of good manners." In closing Mr. Strobridge enforced the idea that after all high character is the best success, and he appealed to the graduates to strive for that success, by having confidence, by having a purpose and a manner.

Class Day exercises of Kingston Academy were held this afternoon in Academy Hall. An interesting programme was rendered. The opening address was made by Edward McKiernan; class history, by Ada Winne; class oration, by Schuyler Schultz; presentation of the "Key of Knowledge," by Edith VanNostrand; acceptance of the "Key of Knowledge," by Frederick Perrine; Class prophecy, by Mary E. Murphy. The "reading of the will," by Frank Davis, "attorney," and the sun-flower song were unique features of the exercises. The will contained many remarkable bequests, and created amusement. Previous to the singing of the sun-flower song a curtain, in which 25 holes had been cut, was hung in front of the stage. Around each hole leaves of sun-flowers had been painted. The 25 members of the class placed their heads in the holes, thus representing "full bloom sun-flowers." The class poem was read by Perlina K. Hendricks, as follows:

With eager eyes we look out afar
Trying to read by the light so dim
The title page of the future hymn
Of our lives.

As a brook to the valley rushing,
Breaking forth from its rocky fountain,
The echoing laugh of the mountain,
So are we.

Whither away, O turbulent stream!
Goest thou along the mountain trail
Forever seeking that twilight vale
Of to-morrow?

Knowest thou that thy crystal water
Shall mingle in the ocean of life
Which is stirred with the struggle and strife
Of time?

Know'st thou not that this world is fleeting?
All through the woods and mountain passes
The winds are chanting solemn masses
For fading leaves?

But we have days and years before us;
Shall we no weave some high ambition
To wing us on to glad frutition,
Of every hope?

The field of endeavor confronts us,
All its paths beckoning on to fame,
Who of us shall achieve a great name
In life's forge?

In these rooms the fires have been lighted
Every mind has been carefully bent.
Lofty purpose now awaits on intent,
With laurels in reach.

Then let us all press on for the prize.
Honor's chaplet, so eagerly sought,
Can only with great effort be bought
By mankind.

The Libel Law Discussed and Certain Recommendations Made—A Hop, Etc.

The afternoon session yesterday was wholly devoted to the consideration of the law of libel. Carroll E. Smith, Chairman of the Committee on Libel, submitted the following report, signed by himself, William A. Clarke, Ira A. Wales, A. C. Keisinger, Charles R. Skinner, and S. C. Keisinger:

It is recommended that the Association approve and urge upon the Legislature an amendment to the code, to be perfected and laid before the next session of the Legislature, to be applied to the general subject of libel, and that it shall embody the following propositions:

First—An action, civil or criminal, cannot be maintained against a reporter, editor, publisher or proprietor of a newspaper for the publication therein of a fair and true report of any judicial, legislative or other public and official proceedings, or of any public meetings or assemblages, without proving actual malice in making the report.

Second—In any action for the publication of a libel in any newspaper, periodical or magazine in this State, if it shall appear upon the trial of the action that the libelous matter was published in good faith, that its falsity was due to mistake or misapprehension, and that a full and fair retraction of any statement alleged to be libelous was published in the case of a daily newspaper within three days, or in the case of any other newspaper, magazine or periodical in the first or second publication thereof after such mistake or error was an erroneous statement was brought to the knowledge of the proprietor or the editor of such newspaper, magazine or other periodical, as conspicuously as was the article complained of. Then and in such case such retraction shall be admitted in justification and in mitigation, and the plaintiff shall recover only actual damages. The words "actual damages" within the section shall be construed to include only such damages as the plaintiff may show he has suffered in his property, business, trade or occupation.

Third—In an action for libel for slander, before issuing the summons therein, an undertaking on the part of the plaintiff in the sum of $25,000, with two competent and sufficient sureties, shall be executed and filed with the Clerk of the County in which the action shall be brought to the effect that if the action shall be dismissed, or the defendant recover judgment, they shall pay such costs and disbursements as may be awarded against the plaintiff, not exceeding $250, and said undertaking having been filed, the said Clerk shall indorse the fact of such undertaking having been filed with him upon the summons in such case before it shall be valid and effective.

Fourth—That civil action for the publication of a libel shall be brought in either the county wherein is located and published either the newspaper, magazine, or periodical against which the action is taken or in the County where the complainant resides.

Fifth—Presumption of malice shall not rest in the fact of publication alone.

The Association adopted the report by a unanimous vote.

A hop was given in the Opera House of the Hotel Kaaterskill last night.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

NEW-YORK, June 27.—The stock market this morning was somewhat more active, especially for the regular list, than yesterday, but first prices were generally ⅛ to ⅜ per cent. lower than last evening's figures. In the regular list the animation was confined principally to St. Paul, Reading, New-England, Atchison, Rock Island and the newly listed Wisconsin Central stock. Among the trusts, lead and cotton oil were still very active, but sugar was unusually quiet. It was strong, however, and rose 1 per cent. to 115½, while the others were without special feature. The regular list presented a firm front, but the fluctuations were small, except in San Francisco preferred, Wisconsin Central and New-England, the first two of which rose 1 per cent. each, and the last named ⅜. At 11 o'clock the market was dull and firm.

Deyo Chipp, of this City, and William Lounsberry, of Stone Ridge, were the contracting parties. The Rev. S. D. Noyes officiated. The bride wore a dress of cream nun's veiling, trimmed with cream surah and lace. The ushers were Dr. C. W. Crispell, John Middagh, TenEyck Newkirk and William Chipp. A reception followed at the residence of the bride's father. The house was decorated with flowers. There were many valuable and useful presents. Mr. and Mrs. Lounsberry will reside at Stone Ridge.

The Young Men's Christian Association Committee on State Military Camp has issued the following to the members of the National Guard of the State of New-York:

GENTLEMEN: The work under the direction of the State Committee of Young Men's Christian Associations on the grounds adjoining the State Camp at Peekskill, has been so thoroughly appreciated by the men for the past two years, that it is proposed to continue it again this year. You will find a large tent where you may spend any leisure time, supplied with games and puzzles; the latest magazines, papers fresh from home, also tables and conveniences for letter writing. A valuable collection of books for a circulating library has also been secured. A tennis court adjoins the tents; tennis and base balls, rackets and bats, and all needful paraphernalia will be furnished. With consent of the chaplains, attractive religious services will be held when advisable. A. E. Flindt, of Brooklyn, N. Y., and O. J. Clark, Secretary Y. M. C. A., Matteawan, N. Y., will have charge of the work, and be glad to meet every man personally, and be of such service as they may be able. It will greatly aid us if you will endeavor to arrange before leaving home at least one musical or literary entertainment, to be given in the tent during the week of your encampment. This feature last year was very pleasurable. Make known these privileges, and the fact that they are free to all members of the National Guard. The Committee's expenses last year were $360.35. A portion of this amount was contributed by the men by collections and voluntary contributions.

The following communication has been received by THE FREEMAN:

BOSTON, Mass., June 25, 1889.

Mr. Editor—The kind words expressed towards the poor canaller in a late edition of your valuable paper meets with my hearty commendation. After 40 years' drifting about the world, I am able to say in truth that there are many people who make worse citizens than the poor canaller, in whose companionship I labored for five years of my early life. The picture of that life, as it hangs upon the wall of my memory, is most vivid, and stirs the heart with sympathy for those who are trying to get a foothold upon the lowest rung of life's ladder. How many poor orphan boys like myself have reason to give thanks for the sympathy and assistance they have received in their early days from the poor canaller, when the professional Christian had shown him the cold shoulder. The true Christian will ever try to elevate his brother by sympathy and love, and not by scorn. Your defense of the poor canaller merits the approval of all good men, and as a graduate of '49 you have my sincere thanks. Yours truly,

D. G. DESMOND.

Officer Westbrook brought Daniel D. Bell to the Ulster County Jail this morning. Bell will be resentenced by Judge Fursman, of Troy, in the Court of Sessions here on Saturday. Bell was convicted at the March Court of Sessions of forging a deed. He was sentenced to confinement in Clinton States Prison by Judge Fursman. Later on it was ascertained that by some miscalculation the sentence did not comply with the statute, which requires the sentence, taking into account the abbreviation of the term by good behavior, to expire between March 1 and November 1, so the prisoner would not be discharged in the winter season. This required a resentence before the same Court, and the same presiding Judge will perform that duty.

The New-York Times says that the price of coal was increased yesterday at a meeting of the sales agents held at the office of the Delaware & Hudson Canal Company, New-York City. Those at the meeting were James C. Hart, of the Delaware & Hudson; Thomas M. Richards, of the Reading Company; W. H. Streit, of the Pennsylvania Coal Company; John F. Wilson, of the Lehigh & Wilkesbarre Coal Company; R. H. Holden, of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, and W. H. Sayre, of the Lehigh Valley Company. They decided to advance grate coal 5 cents, to $3.90 per ton; chestnut 15 cents, to $4.15; stove 15 cents, to $4.45, and egg 10 cents, to $4.10. This is the second advance within a few weeks.

The following from the Poughkeepsie Eagle has a local bearing: "The suggestion thrown out by the Eagle some time ago that signs bearing the names of streets be put at the corners, where none have been before, and old faded ones be repainted, is being acted upon. In many places neat signs have already been put up."

EDUCATIONAL MATTERS.

NEWS ABOUT TEACHERS, PUPILS AND SCHOOLS IN THIS VICINITY.

Graduates Given Good Advice—Exercises Held and to be Held in this City—Alumni Reunion at Ulster Academy Last Night—What Professor W. E. Bunten Said, Etc.

The third annual reunion of the Alumni Association of Ulster Academy was held last evening. A large number of former graduates gathered within the walls of their Alma Mater. The room in which the exercises were held had been prettily trimmed with flags. Back of the platform on a blackboard were the words "Alumni, 1889." Below this board was a stretch of wire netting, which was so thickly decked with daisies as to be hidden from sight. Nearly all the teachers and the President of the Board of Education, John B. Alliger, were present. The success of the reunion was in a large measure due to the class of '88, which is composed of the following: Frederick Webster, Frederick Coykendall, Louis Beers, Charles Quigley, William Canfield, William VanKeuren, George Decker, Leonard Kirchner, Caroline Brodhead, Anna Griffiths, Nellie Gallagher, Mary Kent, Mary Warner, Minnie Johnston, Emma Eichler, Mary Owen, Ida VanGaasbeek. An election of officers of the Alumni Association for the ensuing year resulted as follows:

Frederick Coykendall, '88 .... President
Grace Van Buren, '87 .... Vice-President
Ida McMillan, '82 .... Secretary
William Canfield '88 .... Treasurer

The retiring President, Wesley Thompson, read letters of regret from George A. Brodhead and Miss Sada Schutt, former graduates, of their inability to be present. The following musical and literary programme was rendered:

Instrumental duet, Miss Alice N. Alliger, Miss Elizabeth B. Romeyn; recitation, "Uncle Moses' Easter Eggs," Belle Rice; instrumental solo, Miss Margaret A. McMullen; declamation—"Curing a Cold," Frederick Webster; singing, with guitar accompaniment, Miss Lucie Pattison; instrumental solo, Miss Mamie Sampson.

Later on refreshments were served. The following toasts were given:

"The Board of Education," John B. Alliger; "The Alumni of Ulster Academy," Simon L. Newland, Class of '87; "Our Alma Mater," Louis Beers, Class of '88; "Higher Education for Women," Margaret F. Washburne, Class of '86; "The Dual City," L. B. Van Gaasbeck; "The Schoolmaster Abroad," George Decker, Class of '88.

Professor Bunten made an address. He said in part:

Alumni and friends of Ulster Academy: It is said that confession is good for the soul. I am sure refreshments such as we have received are good for the body and I believe on occasions thanksgiving may be good for both soul and body. And I wish now to thank the Alumni of this institution for the interest and regard they have manifested towards their Alma Mater. The Academy welcomes them once more within its walls and assures them it still is pleased to know of their prosperity, and to feel that it is honored by the record its graduates are making. You are illustrating the truth that intelligence and perseverance and pluck will always succeed. They are qualities that command success and are always at a premium. I also desire to congratulate the class of '88 for the delightful entertainment they have given us. We are pleased to be their guests to-night. I assure you one and all that we who are actively engaged in the work of instruction in Ulster Academy will have our hope and courage revived and strengthened because we know how well those who have been our boys and girls are doing and can do. We bid you Godspeed. Now I suppose human nature is about the same to-day as it has been since the first man was fairly evolved, let his original ancestry be what it may. Our progenitors of all time, whether they dwelt in caves or in marble palaces, whether they supplied their wants with implements of stone or of polished steel and burnished silver have enjoyed this occasion of festivities, and we take delight in the social gathering and enjoy the good things of this world. But seriously, my friends, we have come to the closing days of the school year. The solid work of the school room is practically finished and we may now pass judgment upon its results. I think I, as Principal, may say without vanity that I believe the year has been a successful one. We have not accomplished all we desired to do, yet I believe much hard work has been done and much progress has been made. For this great credit is due to the accomplished corps of teachers who have worked faithfully and well and in a manner most harmonious and agreeable.

I thank them for their cordial support and believe that much of the success that has been attained in Ulster Academy is due to the harmony that exists between all the departments of the school. I may be pardoned if I state that the last report of the Regents shows that during the year 17 State diplomas were issued to the students of this school, which I believe is the largest number ever received by any institution in this City during a single year, and now let me say that any teacher or body of teachers however faithful and earnest need the support of an intelligent and competent power behind them. We have always found the Board of Education ready to aid us in everything for the benefit of the school.

The annual address to the members of the graduating class of Kingston Academy was delivered last evening by the Rev. George E. Strobridge. He said in part: "The Creator says to every one coming into the world: 'You may do your best.' There have been those who gave no promise of success who have succeeded marvelously." Among the speaker's illustrations was that of an eaglet in the nest of geese, which, before it had learned to fly, was inspired by the sight of an eagle in the sky, the shadow of which fell about it, and which frightened all the geese away. "The ancients put the obolus in the mouths of their dead to pay their way across the river into Hades. Into every young man's brain is put a power which will help him pave his way to success, if he will. There is along the highway of life a station called prosperity, and a man may have the ticket in his hand and yet must push on in his endeavor in order to reach that station. There are three conditions of success. First, confidence. Have faith in success. Confidence gives assurance of success. The definition given by the boy that 'faith is being perfectly sure of success when you have nothing to back it up,' is a good one. Second, condition is purpose. Determine that a thing shall be for you and you will be likely to obtain it. Find out what your specialty is. No one ever made a failure who found out what he could do, and many a person has failed of success because he failed to do this. Some one asked Spurgeon how it was that he could write so many sermons easily. He replied, 'I get sermons out of everything, and before you leave I shall suck one out of you.' It is not the amount of mental capacity that a person has, but the investment of that capital. That is what success depends upon. Men who have carried their purpose have been men of one idea. The Irish orator Curran who had such a brogue he utterly failed when he attempted to make his first public address resolved to become an orator and finally became one of the most powerful of the British nation. The third element of success is manner. The way in which a thing is done often decides whether that thing shall be done at all." The speaker gave as principles that should be remembered. "We get back what we give. Manner is most of all goodness of nature. The dancing master should not have a monopoly of good manners." In closing Mr. Strobridge enforced the idea that after all high character is the best success, and he appealed to the graduates to strive for that success, by having confidence, by having a purpose and a manner

Class Day exercises of Kingston Academy were held this afternoon in Academy Hall. An interesting programme was rendered. The opening address was made by Edward McKiernan; class history, by Ada Winne; class oration, by Schuyler Schultz; presentation of the "Key of Knowledge," by Edith VanNostrand; acceptance of the "Key of Knowledge," by Frederick Perrine; Class prophecy, by Mary E. Murphy. The "reading of the will," by Frank Davis, "attorney," and the sun-flower song were unique features of the exercises. The will contained many remarkable bequests, and created amusement. Previous to the singing of the sun-flower song a curtain, in which 25 holes had been cut, was hung in front of the stage. Around each hole leaves of sun-flowers had been painted. The 25 members of the class placed their heads in the holes, thus representing "full bloom sun-flowers." The class poem was read by Perlina K. Hendricks, as follows:

With eager eyes we look out afar
Trying to read by the light so dim
The title page of the future hymn
Of our lives.

As a brook to the valley rushing,
Breaking forth from its rocky fountain,
The echoing laugh of the mountain,
So are we.

Whither away, O turbulent stream!
Goest thou along the mountain trail
Forever seeking that twilight vale
Of to-morrow?

Knowest thou that thy crystal water
Shall mingle in the ocean of life
Which is stirred with the struggle and strife
Of time?

Know'st thou not that this world is fleeting?
All through the woods and mountain passes
The winds are chanting solemn masses
For fading leaves?

But we have days and years before us;
Shall we no weave some high ambition
To wing us on to glad fruition,
Of every hope?

The field of endeavor confronts us,
All its paths beckoning on to fame,
Who of us shall achieve a great name
In life's forge?

In these rooms the fires have been lighted
Every mind has been carefully bent.
Lofty purpose now awaits on intent,
With laurels in reach.

Then let us all press on for the prize.
Honor's chaplet, so eagerly sought,
Can only with great effort be bought
By mankind.

Ulster Academy Commencement will be held at Liscomb's Opera House to-morrow evening. The doors will be opened at 7:30 o'clock and the exercises will begin promptly at 8. The general public will be admitted at the Spring-street entrance and the graduates and those holding reserved seat tickets at the Union-avenue entrance. Kingston Academy Commencement will be held in the Kingston Opera House at the same time.

The closing exercises of St. Joseph's School in Kingston Opera House last evening were largely attended. The pupils gave a most creditable exhibition. The exercises consisted of recitations, dialogues, songs, calisthenics, speeches, etc.

Here is the description which one Vassar girl gave of another at the class-day exercises the other day:

She goes to the opera, to parties and balls,
She passes her mornings in shopping and calls,
She dances and glances and flirts a wee bit,
And for studies perplexing she cares not a whit.

At the Eddyville public school exercises will be held to-morrow afternoon. An interesting programme has been arranged.

The Libel Law Discussed and Certain Recommendations Made—A Hop, Etc.

The afternoon session yesterday was wholly devoted to the consideration of the law of libel. Carroll E. Smith, Chairman of the Committee on Libel, submitted the following report, signed by himself, William A. Clarke, Ira A. Wales, A. C. Keisinger, Charles R. Skinner, and S. C. Keisinger:

It is recommended that the Association approve and urge upon the Legislature an amendment to the code, to be perfected and laid before the next session of the Legislature, to be applied to the general subject of libel, and that it shall embody the following propositions:

First—An action, civil or criminal, cannot be maintained against a reporter, editor, publisher or proprietor of a newspaper for the publication therein of a fair and true report of any judicial, legislative or other public and official proceedings, or of any public meetings or assemblages, without proving actual malice in making the report.

Second—In any action for the publication of a libel in any newspaper, periodical or magazine in this State, if it shall appear upon the trial of the action that the libelous matter was published in good faith, that its falsity was due to mistake or misapprehension, and that a full and fair retraction of any statement alleged to be libelous was published in the case of a daily newspaper within three days, or in the case of any other newspaper, magazine or periodical in the first or second publication thereof after such mistake or error was an erroneous statement was brought to the knowledge of the proprietor or the editor of such newspaper, magazine or or other periodical, as conspicuously as was the article complained of. Then and in such case such retraction shall be admitted in justification and in mitigation, and the plaintiff shall recover only actual damages. The words "actual damages" within the section shall be construed to include only such damages as the plaintiff may show he has suffered in his property, business, trade or occupation.

Third—In an action for libel for slander, before issuing the summons therein, an undertaking on the part of the plaintiff in the sum of $25,000, with two competent and sufficient sureties, shall be executed and filed with the Clerk of the County in which the action shall be brought to the effect that if the action shall be dismissed, or the defendant recover judgment, they shall pay such costs and disbursements as may be awarded against the plaintiff, not exceeding $250, and said undertaking having been filed, the said Clerk shall indorse the fact of such undertaking having been filed with him upon the summons in such case before it shall be valid and effective.

Fourth—That civil action for the publication of a libel shall be brought in either the county wherein is located and published either the newspaper, magazine, or periodical against which the action is taken or in the County where the complainant resides.

Fifth—Presumption of malice shall not rest in the fact of publication alone.

The Association adopted the report by a unanimous vote.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

NEW-YORK, June 27.—The stock market this morning was somewhat more active, especially for the regular list, than yesterday, but first prices were generally 1/8 to 3/8 per cent. lower than last evening's figures. In the regular list the animation was confined principally to St. Paul, Reading, New-England, Atchison, Rock Island and the newly listed Wisconsin Central stock. Among the trusts, lead and cotton oil were still very active, but sugar was unusually quiet. It was strong, however, and rose 1 per cent. to 115½, while the others were without special feature. The regular list presented a firm front, but the fluctuations were small, except in San Francisco preferred, Wisconsin Central and New-England, the first two of which rose 1 per cent. each, and the last named 3/8. At 11 o'clock the market was dull and firm.

The Price of Coal Increased—Convictions in Recorder's Court—An Armenian to Speak in the Wurts-Street Presbyterian Church This Evening—Bell Brought to this City.

There was a pretty wedding in the Fair-Street Reformed Church last evening. Miss Julia M. Chipp, daughter of J. Deyo Chipp, of this City, and William Lounsberry, of Stone Ridge, were the contracting parties. The Rev. S. D. Noyes officiated. The bride wore a dress of cream nun's veiling, trimmed with cream surah and lace. The ushers were Dr. C. W. Crispell, John Middagh, TenEyck Newkirk and William Chipp. A reception followed at the residence of the bride's father. The house was decorated with flowers. There were many valuable and useful presents. Mr. and Mrs. Lounsberry will reside at Stone Ridge.

The Young Men's Christian Association Committee on State Military Camp has issued the following to the members of the National Guard of the State of New-York:

GENTLEMEN: The work under the direction of the State Committee of Young Men's Christian Associations on the grounds adjoining the State Camp at Peekskill, has been so thoroughly appreciated by the men for the past two years, that it is proposed to continue it again this year. You will find a large tent where you may spend any leisure time, supplied with games and puzzles; the latest magazines, papers fresh from home, also tables and conveniences for letter writing. A valuable collection of books for a circulating library has also been secured. A tennis court adjoins the tents; tennis and base balls, rackets and bats, and all needful paraphernalia will be furnished. With consent of the chaplains, attractive religious services will be held when advisable. A. E. Flindt, of Brooklyn, N. Y., and O. J. Clark, Secretary Y. M. C. A., Matteawan, N. Y., will have charge of the work, and be glad to meet every man personally, and be of such service as they may be able. It will greatly aid us if you will endeavor to arrange before leaving home at least one musical or literary entertainment, to be given in the tent during the week of your encampment. This feature last year was very pleasurable. Make known these privileges, and the fact that they are free to all members of the National Guard. The Committee's expenses last year were $360.35. A portion of this amount was contributed by the men by collections and voluntary contributions.

The following communication has been received by THE FREEMAN:

BOSTON, Mass., June 25, 1889.

Mr. Editor—The kind words expressed towards the poor canaller in a late edition of your valuable paper meets with my hearty commendation. After 40 years' drifting about the world, I am able to say in truth that there are many people who make worse citizens than the poor canaller, in whose companionship I labored for five years of my early life. The picture of that life, as it hangs upon the wall of my memory, is most vivid, and stirs the heart with sympathy for those who are trying to get a foothold upon the lowest rung of life's ladder. How many poor orphan boys like myself have reason to give thanks for the sympathy and assistance they have received in their early days from the poor canaller, when the professional Christian had shown him the cold shoulder. The true Christian will ever try to elevate his brother by sympathy and love, and not by scorn. Your defense of the poor canaller merits the approval of all good men, and as a graduate of '49 you have my sincere thanks. Yours truly,
D. G. DESMOND.

Officer Westbrook brought Daniel D. Bell to the Ulster County Jail this morning. Bell will be resentenced by Judge Fursman, of Troy, in the Court of Sessions here on Saturday. Bell was convicted at the March Court of Sessions of forging a deed. He was sentenced to confinement in Clinton States Prison by Judge Fursman. Later on it was ascertained that by some miscalculation the sentence did not comply with the statute, which requires the sentence, taking into account the abbreviation of the term by good behavior, to expire between March 1 and November 1, so the prisoner would not be discharged in the winter season. This required a resentence before the same Court, and the same presiding Judge will perform that duty.

The New-York Times says that the price of coal was increased yesterday at a meeting of the sales agents held at the office of the Delaware & Hudson Canal Company, New-York City. Those at the meeting were James C. Hart, of the Delaware & Hudson; Thomas M. Richards, of the Reading Company; W. H. Streit, of the Pennsylvania Coal Company; John F. Wilson, of the Lehigh & Wilkesbarre Coal Company; R. H. Holden, of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, and W. H. Sayre, of the Lehigh Valley Company. They decided to advance grate coal 5 cents, to $3.90 per ton; chestnut 15 cents, to $4.15; stove 15 cents, to $4.45, and egg 10 cents, to $4.10. This is the second advance within a few weeks.

The next meeting will be held in the office of Frederick Stephan, Jr., on Tuesday evening, July 2.

The following from the Poughkeepsie Eagle has a local bearing: "The suggestion thrown out by the Eagle some time ago that signs bearing the names of streets be put at the corners, where none have been before, and old faded ones be repainted, is being acted upon. In many places neat signs have already been put up."
